Behind the Teenage Curtain

'Good Stern Discipline' Has a Place in Every Home

This is the second of a series of articles on the mounting problem of juvenile delinquency in Greater Victoria. The articles will be frank discussions of the problems, including working mothers, junior high schools, teen-age sex, young drivers and delinquent parents.

Parents who have the pleasure of bringing children into the world and then expect society to raise them are the chief cause of juvenile delinquency, says Victoria Police Chief John Blackstock.

"It is a different story when a father is dead and a mother has to go to work, but when both parents are together they should take a little more interest in their children and make sure they are properly looked after."

"Many parents don't care what time their children come in and don't question them when new articles (possibly stolen) are brought into the home," Chief Blackstock charged.

He said juvenile delinquency is getting so bad in Victoria that he will soon have to add another man to the juvenile detail—an officer to work on the prevention side, to get out among the children and when a child is getting out of step to take him home and talk to the parents.

"The two men we now have on the juvenile detail have far too much work to do a satisfactory job," the chief said.

"Some parents are co-operative. With others you might as well talk to a stone wall," he added.

For every juvenile delinquent the bitter truth is that somewhere there is an adult

Explosives Found

Spears Sorry It Had to Be His Friend

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—FBI agents have discovered explosive in the luggage of Dr. Robert V. Spears, supposed crash "victim" whose wife said last night he admitted inducing another man to take his place on a doomed airliner.

Mrs. Frances Spears said in Dallas, Tex., she saw her husband two weeks before he was arrested at a motel hideout here and begged him to give himself up. "I asked him why he had done it, and he told me he wanted to provide security for me and the babies," said Mrs. Spears.

The finding of explosives in Spears' luggage intensified the FBI investigation into the crash of the National Airlines plane in the Gulf of Mexico. Spears, a glib ex-convict, was listed among the 42 victims of the disaster.

The self-styled doctor was questioned for nine hours without interruption yesterday. But the FBI, which officially has not confirmed the explosives were found, declined any comment after the interrogation.

Mrs. Spears, 36, said the naturopath told her his friend, William Allen Taylor, was travelling on the ill-fated airliner in his place.

"He said he was sorry it had to be him," said Mrs. Spears. The FBI is investigating the possibility Spears tricked another man to take his place to collect $100,000 in insurance.

FBI agents started questioning Spears at 9 a.m. yesterday. Food was brought in twice, but Spears was not allowed to leave the FBI bureau until 7 p.m., when agents hustled him back to the county jail.

Special agent E. L. Boyle refused to discuss the case with reporters. However, sources close to the investigation said the FBI questioned Spears extensively about the explosives. One source said agents wanted to know "what he was doing with all that stuff."

In Dallas, Tex., it was disclosed FBI agents began a search of the home of Spears' 36-year-old wife.

Also questioned for seven hours here yesterday was Dr. William A. Turska, a naturopath at whose ranch Spears was believed to have stayed for about two months. Turska was not charged in the current case.

Influenza has caught up with Premier Bennett.

He went home from his office Tuesday and has been ordered to take a 48-hour rest. He will not be back at his desk until Monday. (Other flu story on Page 21.)

He added that things are far enough advanced for Thursday's session opening so the premier's absence is not likely to upset arrangements.

OTTAWA (CP) — Justice Minister Fulton said yesterday the cabinet will act quickly to consider the case of 14-year-old Steven Truscott, sentenced to hang Feb. 16 for the rape-slaying of a 12-year-old girl.

"A government decision on the matter can be expected reasonably soon," he said. The jury recommended mercy.

Not since 1875 has anyone as young as Truscott been convicted of murder in Canada.

Worst Underground Disaster

500 Africans Trapped In Sunken Coal Mine

Frantic Rescuers In Action

COALBROOK, South Africa (Reuters)—Rescuers worked frantically early today to reach more than 500 men trapped by two collapses in a coal mine.

Several hundred other men trapped in another part of the mine, located 45 miles from Johannesburg, were led to safety by rescuers.

Rescue teams from all over the Orange Free State flocked to the disaster scene.

The men are trapped 600 feet underground.

WORST DISASTER

It is the worst disaster in South African mining history. Twelve hours after the collapse, the fate of the trapped men still was not known.

In many places, the surface of the road outside the town sank six inches and rescue traffic was diverted to country roads.

CARRY CANARIES

Fire-fighting teams in the mine were equipped with respirators and carried canaries because of their extreme sensitivity to methane gas.

First reports said more than 200 men were trapped. Later officials said as many as 500 African Negroes may be prisoners in the depths of the mine.

BREAK THROUGH

Rescuers worked frantically to break through the debris to get air into the trapped men. A big ventilating fan in the mine was wrecked by the collapse, and only a small emergency fan was in operation.

Scores of miners rescued during the night volunteered to go back down in a bid to save their trapped comrades.

WEeping WOMEN

Weeping women and children huddled around the entrance of the mine for news of their relatives.

A statement by the owners said it was known that two falls took place in the mine.

"It is feared that six whites and approximately 500 Africans are trapped in the mine and rescue operations are proceeding uninterruptedly," it added.

WAITED TO HEAR

Mrs. Boet Prinsloo, wife of one of the trapped men, said that a year ago "I waited to hear while my husband was trapped by a similar fall."

"Two Africans with him were killed and he was in hospital for several weeks. Now he is trapped again."

'Where Am I?'

Can This Be Victoria?

The ranks of the legions whose recognition signal is "charming" when the password is "Victoria," failed to gain a new recruit here yesterday in outspoken Vancouver architect C. E. "Ned" Pratt.

Fresh from a motor tour of the capital city's residential areas the distinguished-looking "bad boy" of the three-man architects' committee which is touring Canada ran his hands through his steel-grey hair and said "where am I?"

"Am I in Victoria?"

"Or is this Calgary, or Edmonton, or Ottawa or Toronto or St. John's?"

ALL SAME

"They are all the same now. You could take me out of this chair," he said, "and blindfold me and put me in Victoria or any of those other cities and I wouldn't know where I was. This isn't the Victoria I remember when I went to school at Brentwood."

"We were out in the country there then—it was beautiful, the rolling fields, the sudden entrance to the city."

"Today as we drove in from the airport I was agast."

"You don't enter Victoria any more, you become gradually indoctrinated to it—now you don't really know when you have entered it."

"This terrible urban sprawl—all living in the country on nice, neat 66-by-100-foot lots."

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

KRUPP, the big arms firm, is back in business stronger than ever. But Krupp is supposedly on our side now. We must treat him as a "good guy."

Norbert Mühlen has just written a book called "The Incredible Krupps," which is reviewed by George Bailey in the current Reporter magazine. Krupp isn't strictly a German firm. It is "an international industrial complex with vast holdings abroad—a sort of economic Mafia."

Before 1914, Krupp leased patents on shell fuses to Vickers of Britain, for a set fee per fuse. After the war, Krupp demanded 12,000,000 shillings in royalties. By private agreement, he received a lesser sum in settlement.

It was "pay for the bullets used to kill his countrymen."

"There is nothing so incredible about the Krupps as the lunacy with which the firm inspires its enemies."

In 1919 the Allies were in such a rush to strip Germany of its arms that they demanded the delivery of more arms than there were in German arsenals. Krupp manufactured arms to meet treaty obligations, and rushed the arms to the Allies, who destroyed them.

After the Second World War, the Allies decided to dismantle Krupp. Who got the contract for dismantling the factories? Krupp did. The cost of tearing down the Borbeck works alone was 27,000,000 marks. (Construction cost, 120,000,000.)

The dismantled works were shipped to Russia. While the Western Allies were going through the motions of breaking trusts, the Soviets in their East German occupation zone were building bigger trusts.

Alfred Felix Alwyn Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach, head of the family-controlled industrial empire, was tried as a war criminal. The court sentenced him to 12 years' imprisonment and forfeiture of all his property.

Krupp's manner during the trial was one of cool indifference. He had no real worries. "His firm was . . . actually growing apace during the trial. The sale of a few Krupp properties under Allied de-concentration rules supplied the firm with almost $3,000,000 in cash."

Two-and-a-half years later, John J. McCloy, the first American High Commissioner for Germany, set all Krupp convicts free. McCloy declared the confiscation of Krupp's fortune null and void and "generally repugnant to American concepts of justice."

"When Krupp dismantled Krupp, it was paid handsomely for doing so, and bought new machines to replace the old ones. Often . . . foreign competitors were stuck with the old ones . . ."

"Krupp is now stronger than ever. The latest Krupp catalogue contains a bewildering variety of 4,000 products and services."

Alfred Krupp von Bohlen was one of those who won the war, and the peace. Millions of little people lost. They are dead. Krupp von Bohlen is alive and rich. That seems to be the way our world is run.

Power to Add

Scurrah Names Auditorium Body

Completion of a five-member committee to take a thorough look into civic auditorium possibilities was announced yesterday by Mayor Percy Scurrah.

The mayor previously named Aldermen Arthur Dowell and Austin Curtis. Yesterday he added B.C. Electric vice-president W. C. Mearns, Sooke Lake Lumber Co. general manager Newton Cameron, and music and drama critic Audrey Johnson.

The committee will have power to add others to its number, and Mayor Scurrah called for the fullest co-operation from all organized groups in Greater Victoria.

"I'm hoping the committee will go to work to gather all the information necessary in order that the public can intelligently assess the desirability of having an auditorium," the mayor said.

"I would like them to gather information on location, size, whether it should be a civic auditorium or a convention hall, the estimated cost of construction, cost of operation, and any other information of value to the citizens in deciding in our own minds how desirable it is."

Heart Fund Starts

G. Fitzpatrick Dunn, a leader in Greater Victoria's community life, has been appointed to head the Vancouver Island section of the 1960 Heart Fund drive in February.

The appointment was announced yesterday at a luncheon given by Jack Diamond, Vancouver businessman and provincial chairman of the 1960 Heart Fund of the B.C. Heart Foundation.

Of the $300,000 B.C. objective, $30,000 is being sought on Vancouver Island. Mr. Dunn said, and "if we can help the Heart Fund reach its objective, we will make it easier for our research programs in Vancouver, Victoria and other centres to forge ahead."

Since its first campaign in 1957, the foundation has made excellent progress in the fight against heart disease," he said.

Fitness Is Easy

By LLOYD PERCIVAL
(Fifth of a Series)

By now you should be feeling fitter. If you have been sticking to your daily fitness program.

But perhaps you still feel a trifle fragile after trotting up a flight of steps?

Well, today's new exercise—to be added to your keep-fit program—will help solve that.

Purpose: To strengthen and condition the all-important leg muscles and the heart and promote increased circulation.

To keep your heart in shape the big muscles of the legs must be used, and in our modern way of life they are rarely given much work.

Toes Apart

Method: Stand with heels together, toes apart, hands on hips.

Now, bend the knees and squat down until you are sitting on your heels with your knees out to the side.

Return to standing position. Do five times at a rate of one complete movement (down and up again) per second.

Rest for 10 seconds, do again, only this time keep the toes straight ahead and bend the knees so that they go straight out in front of you. Do five times.

Add one full squat to each section every three or four days until you can do a total of 15 each position without difficulty.

Don't Rush

Don't rush it; build up gradually.

After you can do 30 at one time without any undue fatigue you can if you wish keep on building up your repetitions until you can do 50.

When you can do 50 of these squats you will know you are in excellent basic condition.

Purpose: To strengthen the vital muscles of the lower back, stretch the thighs and pelvic area, tighten and strengthen the buttock muscles, improve general circulation.

Low back pain and other similar discomforts often are caused by a lack of strength in the low back area.

Method: Lie on your back, knees up, feet flat on the floor, arms at sides, hands flat on the floor beside you.

Lift Hips

Then, lift the hips up as high as you can and stretch for three or four seconds, lower hips and then repeat.

Do five slow lifts and stretches and then start doing the lifts as fast as you can, getting a full lift and upward stretch each time in spite of the increased speed.

Do a total of 15—five slow, five fast. Add three more every three to four days until you can do 30 without trouble. Remember, you must lift those hips as high as possible each time.

Eat and Grow Younger

Our Ancestors Wolfed Meat

By LELORD KORDEL
(Fifth of a series)

There were no nutrition scientists and health teachers to warn our cavemen ancestors that if they wanted to be alert and powerful enough to survive the incredible dangers of life in their era, they had to "eat their protein every day."

What they did was to grab a piece of meat—more than likely raw or only half-cooked—and wolf it down. It was their instinct to seek food that satisfied their hunger cravings and kept them strong enough to meet the physical problems of their rigorous lives.

Even today, the instinct for protein, man's best energy food, is strong among primitive peoples, although the supply of such food available to them may be scarce. The more primitive tribes, living in regions of Africa where the hunting of wild animals is not plentiful enough to supply their instinctive appetite for meat, attempt to satisfy this craving by eating grubs and caterpillars, by trapping birds, mice and ground squirrels.

Guzzling Drink

Between our national habit of gorging ourselves on starch-and-sugar foods and guzzling soft drinks, and the savage's taste for worms and varmits, the primitive man has more nutritional justification for his choice than we do.

I enjoy a wedge of pie, a slice of cake, a piece of candy or a plate of spaghetti as thoroughly as anybody. But I recognize these artificial foods for what they really are—dissipations, not nutrition.

Life would be pretty dull if we always did what we should. Of course, you would be far better off if you never let another bit of rich, starchy, artificial food pass your lips. But you are going to fall from grace anyway—even as I sometimes do myself. And it's a whole lot better for your psychology—to say nothing of your will power—if you are given a 1 per cent margin for "nutritional sinning."

Proper Time

There is a proper time to sin on sugars and starches, but that time is not at your regular mealtime. If you feel that you have to munch on a piece of candy, or eat a slice of cake, by all means do so at very rare intervals, between meals, and far enough away from the next meal so that you don't take the edge off your appetite for the youth-protecting protein foods.

But never, if you wish to derive any benefit from this Eat-and-Grow-Younger regimen, include heavy starches with your high-protein meals. Unnecessary aging begins with starch addition.

But I must be careful not to give all carbohydrates a black eye, for like many villains there is also a good side to our bad man. The carbohydrates found in vegetables, fruits, milk, whole grains and seed cereals are good carbohydrates provided from natural sources. These foods also contain varying amounts of protein (something wholly lacking in artificial starches), in addition to valuable minerals and vitamins, and furnish a necessary contribution to your Eat-and-Grow-Younger diet.

Wrong Kind

What are the "wrong kind" of carbohydrates?

Let's take bread as an example—the "staff of life." But is it?

Dr. Agnes Fay Morgan of the University of California stated that modern production methods rob bread of 30 nutrients.

"Enriched" flour restores four of the 30 missing nutrients, but still leaves you short-changed of 26, which brings us to white flour, the principal ingredients of our "staff of life."

Nature never created a white grain of wheat or rice, nor a white grain of cane sugar. Such improvements were left to the ingenuity of modern processors.

Sweet Beverage

For many generations, Brazilian laborers living near the equator have subsisted mainly on rice, bread and mandioca—all of them high starches—usually washed down by nauseatingly sweet beverages. Life expectancy among these people has never been high, and they are frequently made fun of for a "laziness" that is actually a deficiency disease brought on by protein starvation.

The United States National Safety Council warns automobile drivers against overeating on starches before and during trips.

That stuffy feeling which is the sure result of a too-starchy meal (rarely can one eat enough protein to produce a gorged feeling, since the appetite is satisfied much more quickly with protein foods than with high starches) cuts down your mental and physical alertness and leaves you wanting to doze.

Reds' 7,766-Mile Rocket Scores Pacific Bull's-Eye

Big Step To Space

HONOLULU (UPI) — Russia has taken a big stride toward putting man into space by hurling a super-rocket 7,766 miles in less than 30 minutes to within 1.24 miles of its target in the central Pacific, it was disclosed yesterday. The rocket flight was announced in Moscow and confirmed in Washington, where the defence department said the Russian performance claims apparently were accurate, an indication that the rocket had been tracked by American planes and ships close to the target area.

The rocket, launched Wednesday from an undisclosed point in the Soviet Union, probably from an area near the Caspian Sea, travelled at a speed of 16,156 miles an hour.

ACCURATE, TOO — America's biggest missile, the Atlas, has flown over distances of more than 5,000 miles in 14 firings, landing on the average within two miles of target.

Russia also announced that it had solved the re-entry problem with the firing of the huge rocket.

Western observers said the rocket might have been powered by clusters of existing Soviet rocket engines.

Three Soviet scientific ships stationed in the test area, about 1,100 miles southwest of Hawaii, tracked the rocket's nose cone into the water, but there was no indication whether it had been recovered.

Moscow said its program is designed to produce a "more powerful ballistic multi-stage rocket for orbiting heavy earth satellites and for realizing space flights toward the planets of the solar system."

The Commons approved in principle a bill providing for government-guaranteed bank loans to Western farmers with unthreshed grain.

The CCF tried to limit the interest the banks may charge on the loans to five per cent, but was ruled out of order.

Rail Talks Resume Today

MONTREAL (CP) — Contract negotiations between the major railways and their non-operating unions are to be resumed today, amid speculation the negotiations are headed for a breakdown.

Neither side would comment Thursday on the possibility that talks may reach a stalemate.

Drug Firm Told Prices 'Out of Line'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) told a big Philadelphia drug firm Thursday its prices and profits were "completely out of line."

Even allowing for big expenses in research to keep up to date, Kefauver said, the firm of Smith, Kline & French ranked second among the 500 most profitable manufacturing firms in the U.S.

Summing up a day's hearings on the price of tranquilizers, Kefauver said he was opposed to the idea of socialized medicine, but he declared it would come "unless you and others get your prices down."

The subcommittee said state department figures show that 50 thorazine tablets of 25 milligrams each are sold to druggists here for $3.03, but cost the English druggist 77 cents. In France, where the drug was discovered, the wholesale cost is 51 cents.

Japan's Premier Welcomed In Commons and Senate

OTTAWA (CP) — Japanese Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi, an earnest little man flashing only an occasional smile, flew into Ottawa Thursday and was warmly welcomed on Parliament Hill.

Leaders of the three political parties in the Commons greeted the 63-year-old prime minister and his foreign minister Aichihiro Fujiyama, in brief addresses of welcome in Canada's lower house.

Mr. Kishi sat in the Commons gallery, next to Mrs. John Diefenbaker, wife of the Canadian prime minister, as the party leaders spoke and parliamentarians thumped their desks in applause. Later he visited the red-carpeted Senate chamber and sat to the right of Speaker Mark Drouin as further addresses of welcome were delivered.

Starts Friday, 2 p.m.

'Plan 12-Mile Limit'

OTTAWA (CP) — J. W. Pickersgill (L. Bonavista, Twillingate) suggested yesterday that the government plan now for enforcement of a 12-mile exclusive fishing area off Canadian shores.

Mr. Pickersgill noted there are indications the United States may go along with a Canadian plan at the international conference on the law of the sea at Geneva in March.

The Canadian plan is for a six-mile territorial sea instead of the present three-mile area over which this country has territorial jurisdiction and a 12-mile offshore area reserved for exclusive fishing jurisdiction.

At previous conferences, the U.S. was agreeable to the 6-12 formula but with the limitation that "traditional" fishing rights of other countries within the 12-mile area be continued, to protect fishermen.

The Liberal opposition suggested the government may be thinking of holding off new social security legislation until just before the next election, expected in 1962.

May Defy Tour Ban — Bidault

PARIS (AP) — The government Thursday night barred former Premier Georges Bidault from making a tour of Algeria.

Bidault, an opponent of the moderate Algerian policies of President de Gaulle, indicated he may not obey the order.

But a Commons question on this point by Paul Martin (L. Essex East), asking whether the government plans legislation in a pre-election session, merely brought the reply from Prime Minister Diefenbaker that Mr. Martin thinks the government follows the practices of the former Liberal government.

The Commons approved in principle a bill providing for government-guaranteed bank loans to Western farmers with unthreshed grain.

The CCF tried to limit the interest the banks may charge on the loans to five per cent, but was ruled out of order.

Chances are you'll never tie up alongside the Canada Steamship Lines' flagship T. R. McLagan at your Imperial Esso service station. But she's an Imperial customer all the same and an important one as far as you are concerned.

How ships like this giant grain carrier help Imperial keep the cost of gasoline down

The fuel used by the T. R. McLagan is a thick, heavy, black oil—quite different from the light volatile gasoline your car needs.

If gasoline were the only product made from crude, it would cost much more to produce. Instead, research and refining specialists in companies like Imperial have developed ways to utilize all parts of the crude, from light gases for making plastics, for example, to heavy asphalt for pavement.

In between are hundreds of other products, like the oils, greases and fuel used by the T. R. McLagan and the lubricants for your car.

Imperial's efficiency in getting everything out of the crude oil means the prices of all products are low. That's one reason government figures show that in the last five years the average price of things people buy has gone up nearly 16 per cent, while gasoline has actually gone down about half of one per cent.

Peace Versus Columbia

IF not exactly presenting an ultimatum, Mr. W. C. Mainwaring has put on the squeeze in his latest and frankest pronouncement on the Peace hydro development. In essence the implication is that if the Columbia scheme receives priority and his company does not get firm commitments from the B.C. Electric and the B.C. Power Commission he and his associates might, like the Arabs and their tents, pack up and steal away.

Nothing so abrupt is likely to happen, if only because this would mean the loss of a half-a-million dollar guarantee to the government, as well as no recovery of the reported five millions spent on surveys and exploration work in the Peace area. Company promoters do not normally indulge in such gestures.

The president of the Peace River Power Development Co. has brought the Peace-versus-Columbia controversy into sharp focus, however. This is not a bad thing if it results in clarification of the issue and of the dual possibilities involved. Mr. Mainwaring says that without an export market there is no room for both developments before 1975. The federal external affairs minister, Mr. Howard Green, counters this by accusing Mr. Mainwaring of trying to scuttle the Columbia. This may be an exaggeration, but certainly the latter is not aiming to help the Columbia cause.

Premier Bennett is meanwhile caught in the middle. His vision, and a praiseworthy one, is to open up the north for the future prosperity of the province and to this end he has encouraged the Wenner-Gren people, on terms printed in this newspaper yesterday. It would be a political setback of some magnitude if the Peace venture did not go ahead. Mr. Bennett does not agree that one or other of the rival developments would be redundant, however. He thinks that by the time the hydro power begins to flow B.C. will be able to absorb the double output.

He could be right. Estimates on population growth and provincial needs are at best conjectural; actuality often confounds the prophets.

B.C. could burgeon immensely in the next decade.

For the utility companies concerned they are faced with the proposition that if they do not sign up for Peace power that power might never be produced, for it is on these contracts that Mr. Mainwaring's company must base its bid for the funds necessary to finance the development. This is understandable. Investors cannot be wooed by the unknown; there must be a market in sight else they won't invest.

For the utilities this poses a dilemma. If they sign for the Peace they are tied up for perhaps 30 years—sufficient time for the retirement of the development company's financial obligations. Columbia power, it has been stated, will come much cheaper because of the returns to be gained from the U.S. on its side of the development. But at the moment the Columbia scheme is problematical, clouded by agreements yet to be made with the U.S. and between federal and provincial authorities. The utilities have only so long to make their decisions.

A private company like the B.C. Electric can afford to commit itself more easily than a public one. The B.C. Power Commission could come under criticism if it were bound for a long period to the Peace and in the interim Columbia power became available at a lower rate.

There is a breathing space, however. Because the prospects of being allowed to export power are nil Mr. Mainwaring has set back the target date of the Peace production by two years, from 1966 to 1968. There is therefore no necessity to hurry the water rights procedures; these won't be needed until 1962 and the hiatus will not impair the plans of the PRPD. Nothing need become ironclad before then, and by that time there should be definite word concerning the Columbia project.

The Mainwaring declaration may in fact hasten the Columbia development. It should at least evoke authoritative opinion on the capacity of B.C. to absorb the potential output of both enterprises.

Great Benefit to City

CONSIDERABLE interest attaches to the proposed unification of independent bus line services in Victoria and Vancouver, with this city as their headquarters. Announcement by Mr. Harold Hushand that Vancouver Island Coach Lines has purchased Pacific Stage Lines and Gray Line Motor Tours in Vancouver, and intends to merge them with present holdings of the company here in a co-ordinated service between both cities, using the new provincial Swartz Bay-Teawassen ferry route as the boat link and extending on to the Fraser Valley, could bring welcome new business to Victoria.

When the necessary authority is granted by the Public Utilities Commission, under the progressive management of the locally-owned transit company this should assure Victoria of fast and convenient connection with Vancouver, and a new interurban service beyond that along the line of the Fraser River. From resident and touring standpoints such an improvement in present facilities would prove of first-rate importance to this city in winter and summer vacation seasons, as well as the year-around fast service between the two principal cities of B.C.

The fact that the main repair shops and servicing of a redoubled fleet of buses operating in both cities would be kept here also would add to Victoria's payroll. The chief gain, however, is this promise of a swift, direct connection between the two cities.

Privilege Revoked

BY quickly withdrawing a special privilege granted to 12 of its staff the City has corrected a piece of bad psychology before the public protests could become too awkward. In allowing the employees free off-street parking the City was doing what the provincial government and many private employers have been doing for years. The trouble is that the City went about it the wrong way. An area reserved for the private cars of staff members probably would have excited little or no comment. The mistake was in permitting the employees to park free in the new public parking lot on the site of the old market, where spaces are metered. That was a sure way of arousing the ire of some ordinary citizens and taxpayers who have to pay a nickel an hour for the same accommodation.

Trade Leading Factor

WITH the signing of the U.S.-Japanese security pact out of the way, Japanese Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi must come to grips with another pressing problem—what to do about Red China.

A large part of Japanese pleasure in the new pact stems from the fact that it makes Japan a full and equal partner of the United States, a sovereign status not enjoyed since the Second World War.

But the hostile demonstration by extremist Japanese youths upon Kishi's departure for Washington and the loud voices of Japanese socialists also illustrate that the new treaty is not universally popular.

The hostile extremists were youths who follow the Communist party line and therefore would oppose any close link with the U.S.

The socialists, many of whom also are anti-United States, feel that the pact draws Japan away from its area of greatest interest, namely, Asia, and renders more difficult the establishment of friendly relations with Red China.

The pressure for closer ties with Red China is both political and economic, and is not limited to the leftists.

A senior adviser in Kishi's own Liberal-Democratic party, Kenzo Matsumura, recently returned to Tokyo from an extended tour of Red China and warned that the Peiping regime will be "a mighty power within five or 10 years."

"Why not face up to the reality that Communist China today is an awakening nation?" he demanded. "It is not wise to exclude her from international dealings."

Japanese businessmen also look longingly at the vast China mainland.

Before the war some 20 per cent of Japan's exports went to China and 10 per cent of her imports came from there.

Japanese trade with Red China today is a comparative trickle, with the balance running against Japan.

In contrast, Japanese-U.S. trade runs to approximately a billion dollars annually, about evenly divided between imports and exports. Counting U.S. military and other expenditures, the dollar balance is on Japan's side.

... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

I HAVE often wondered if, 1776 and all that notwithstanding, the folks across the line didn't have a yen for royal trappings. Perhaps not so much in the western states but in the old colonial sections of eastern U.S.A.

Insofar as terminology is concerned, certainly, there is a decided fondness for noble and aristocratic titles, as witness the beef barons, movie queens and baseball sultans, etc., who flourish in kingly style.

The Boston tea party, it seems, has left a lingering atmosphere.

It is from Boston that the latest atmospheric hint comes. There an attempt is being made to have Queen Elizabeth exonerate the witches hanged in Salem, Massachusetts, 268 years ago. This won't help the unfortunate victims of those superstitious days but it will restore the honor of New England.

I should think this is rather un-American if it means, as it appears to do, that America cannot herself remove a blot on her escutcheon. I would have imagined that the correct republican gesture would be simply to declare all happenings before 1776 null and void if they impugned the good name of America or Americans.

In fact the Massachusetts legislature did something of this kind when as recently as 1957 it erased the conviction of the Salem witches. Apparently that is not enough, however; nothing less than a pardon by Queen Elizabeth will do.

Pardons, even royal ones, are peculiar things, by the way. Actually a pardon is an act of forgiveness, or a relief from a penalty imposed. It does not reverse the original conviction, so that anyone found later to be innocent of an offence and freed from prison is merely excused, as it were. He is thus pardoned for something he did not do.

Be that as it may, however, the Salem petitioner concerned asks that the 1957 measure be repealed because the legislature didn't have the power to cleanse the witchcraft episode. Only the British crown can do this because in 1692 the courts of New England operated under its aegis. Or so it is averred.

One suspects that Queen Elizabeth is rather preoccupied these days. For one thing a new royal advent is in the offing, something that is sure to hit the headlines across the line as elsewhere when it happens. That she should be asked to intervene in the legal processes of a now foreign country will perhaps take her breath away.

This is a compliment, of course. It suggests that the descendant of George III still holds some sort of sway over American minds and jurisprudence, which one supposes will come as a surprise to her. Enthusiastic though the welcome to her was in Chicago last year, she could never have dreamed this implied her audience was any way subject to her.

No doubt if it came to the bit Queen Elizabeth would be glad to erase any dishonor alleged still to be clinging to Massachusetts, but what would Washington say; not the George Washington of 1776 but his successor, at the White House.

Would this not tell the world that the Boston tea party to the contrary; the great republic to the south was yet bound by legal skein to Westminster? And where would that leave the senator who proposed Canada should be sold by Britain to the U.S. in lieu of war debts?

Drama of Nuclear Disarmament

By MARQUIS CHILDS, from Washington

THE old familiar drama of disarmament is about to open for a new run. Whether it is taken as a kind of cynical poker game with most of the cards wild, or a profoundly important—perhaps a final—attempt to lift the nuclear siege of recent years, it will occupy the stage in the months ahead.

Before the phase of international bargaining is reached at Geneva on March 15 there is an exceedingly difficult operation to be performed here in Washington. That is to try to stake out an agreed Western position valid both in world opinion and as a genuine effort to begin reducing the terrible burden of armaments under a system of inspection and control.

A first small step has been taken. A disarmament study group named by President Eisenhower and headed by Charles A. Coolidge has turned in a review with recommendations. It will be combed over by the departments of state and defence and eventually will go to the National Security Council for a final policy determination.

But it is already fairly evident that the first step is too timid. In deference to powerful forces in the Pentagon and the Atomic Energy Commission the Coolidge report is said to avoid almost entirely the challenge of nuclear disarmament. This represents the triumph of those, such as chairman John McCone of the AEC, who believe that the nuclear deterrent cannot be reduced by a single bomb lest the West be opened to assault by the overwhelming manpower of Russia and China.

The fear of America's allies is that the West will end with a position so narrow and cautious that it will be meaningless either for bargaining purposes or for propaganda. Against the background of Premier Khrushchev's demand for total disarmament and his boast of nuclear superiority the West could lose the propaganda battle and at the same time end up in a position of military inferiority.

The West Germans are fearful that the American stand will fail to provide a base for a realistic approach to the Russians. If between March 15, when the 10-nation disarmament commission meets, and May 16, when the summit conference opens, it is already apparent that the disarmament talks are a sham battle of words, the Germans will be most unhappy. Chancellor Adenauer puts No. 1 priority on long and serious disarmament negotiations. If there is to be no substance to these negotiations then a Berlin settlement comes to the fore at the summit.

The stand which the British seem likely to take is even more significant since it is related to the stalemate in the nuclear tests talks just resumed at Geneva. The British view is that these talks must succeed even though it means accepting a control system considerably less than perfect. What the British are currently saying is, in effect, as follows:

"None of the nuclear powers, not even the United States despite President Eisenhower's statement of the right to resume upon notice, dares to begin testing again. The adverse effect on world opinion would be too great."

"Therefore, unless some control system can be agreed to, the prospect for the indefinite future is a cessation of nuclear testing without any inspection. This is the worst possible situation for the West. The only thing to do is to get the best possible agreement with the Russians and from that beginning go ahead working to tighten up the inspection and control mechanism."

Even those in the State Department and on Capitol Hill who have been for a compromise on the test agreement would not go that far. But at the same time they are aware of what it would mean if the current Geneva talks should blow up. The prospect for any progress on disarmament would not be bright.

This same peril is recognized by the newcomer to Washington whom President Eisenhower has designated to be America's disarmament negotiator. Frederick M. Eaton, distinguished New York lawyer who had extensive wartime experience in government, will first with his good friend Secretary of State Herter start co-ordinating the common Western position.

The four other powers on the Western side are Britain, France, Canada and Italy. Later in the month they will send ministers of state here who will begin the long, arduous process. This drama of disarmament has often in the past ended in futility. Today there is a feeling that it cannot again simply wither away in a desert of dusty words, since survival itself

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

WHAT a tragedy it must be for the beatniks to realize that they are now cornball.

Nothing is more frustrating than the changes of fashion in rebellion. The beatniks haven't been able to get their pictures in the paper for two or three months now. People aren't complaining about them any more. Art editors won't buy any more jokes about them. They're old stuff. They are cornball. Square, in their fashion.

The reason for their sudden decline in entertainment value is the increase in their numbers. That is the trouble with rebellion. It attracts too many followers. Rebels prefer to be alone on the stage, except for the necessary few stooges around them.

When everybody wants to get into the act, including the usual swarm of phonies who want to get in on any act so long as it promises them a little notice, rebellion either becomes tiresome or else is calmly enfolded in society's comfortable embrace.

It looks as if the beatniks have been so enfolded in the motherly bosom. They have ceased to be a phenomenon. In a department store yesterday a scruffy moth-eaten-bearded young man and a gaunt young female beatnik looking like Sarah Bernhardt (who died in 1923) thrust dreamily through the crowd.

"I suppose," said one kindly lady, glancing after them, "they are advertising something?"

Vancouver the Younger

(From The Winnipeg Free Press)

VANCOUVER (Washington) wants Vancouver (British Columbia) to change its name to avoid confusion. The suggestion has been coldly received in the B.C. city.

But surely the American city has a point when it says that the Canadian Vancouver is the younger of the two towns and so should be the one to make the change. When the Hudson's Bay Company built its fort on the Columbia River in 1825, it named it Fort Vancouver; and Vancouver has thus been an integral part of the Washington community's name for well over a century and a quarter.

Vancouver, B.C., on the other hand got its present name only in the 1880s when Sir William van Horné decided it would be so called when his railway reached the West Coast. Before that it was Granville, but was better known by the colorful name of Gastown, after Gassy Jack Deighton, a British sailor turned hotel keeper.

The British Columbia city's claim to the name seems a bit tenuous, based as it is on Mayor Tom Alsbury's argument that "we are the city that has maintained the strong ties with Captain George Vancouver" (by ouija board?) "and with the British Commonwealth."

Would the good people of Vancouver really object to once again becoming citizens of Gastown? And if they should object that Gastown is hardly a euphonious name for so noble a metropolis, let them remember that its present name, rendered into English, probably means "Of the Cow Ford."

Safe Conformity

(From The Toronto Globe and Mail)

MEN will look like the strong sex in the new styles — "in fuzzy, shaggy, puffy outer garments," according to fashion experts. Color will be rampant in Piedmont blue and Chianti wine, peacock feathers will return and "the new garb will make men look like Vikings."

We remain unshaken, in a calmness only skepticism and disillusionment can bestow. We have heard these forecasts (annually) before; emancipation was just around the corner. To prove it, dashes of individualism did turn up in shop windows, had their day, and vanished whence they came—around the corner where emancipation lurked.

One year ahead, as now and one year past, we shall assuredly see valiant extroverts dressed like field marshals and lion tamers or even Vikings — opening the doors of hostilities for an unending stream of business suits, worn by men who look as much like undertakers as they dare without deviating an iota from the safe conformity around and about them.

Letter to the Editor

'We Deserve It'

Why all this confusion about the increase of teenage delinquency? Surely we deserve it? After all we idolize our youth, we pamper them, cater to them, over-respect them, even begin to fear them a little. The result is inevitable and obvious: we have pampered youth on the rampage—irresponsible, impulsive, erratic and self-centred. The solution? One little word: discipline.

It is discipline that has produced the world's greatest statesmen, scholars and soldiers. It is discipline that is responsible for all the better qualities in mankind. And it is discipline to which we must turn to save order from the quagmire of chaos.

It used to be an accepted and fundamental fact, and still is to some extent in the old world, that the youth was essentially a minor and was to be disciplined to the ways of good citizenship and society. The impulsive emotions of youth were respected and guided into useful channels. Youth was taught to respect his elders and was imbued at an early age with the realization that to reach maturity he must discipline himself and acquire responsible aims and ideals.

Of course there was always that percentage of irresponsible youth and there always will be, but the percentage today is out of all proportion and is still on the increase. This is all the more alarming in view of the fact that educational facilities are better and available to all.

Today, however, the immature and impulsive emotions of youth are magnified and have assumed such importance as never before. One may almost say revered. And these emotions, far from being controlled, are now an accepted part of our society.

Let us rescue discipline from obsolescence and continue to criticize until this product of our time, the pampered and full-of-his-own-importance teenager is put back to his rightful place, not in the limelight but in the minority and under the rule of discipline.

JOHN CANN.

Stern Discipline Needed in Home

delinquent, usually one or both of the parents.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner says almost 98 per cent of juvenile delinquency stems from inadequate supervision of youngsters, broken homes, homes where both parents work and where there is pronounced alcoholism by one or both parents.

Open Doorstep

"It is not sufficient for community groups to look to the provincial government for help. Community groups which recognize a problem of delinquency should recognize the problem to be cleared up is really on their own doorsteps."

Mr. Bonner said. Mr. Bonner blames overuse of the word teenager for some of the current juvenile problems.

No Oddity

"Advertising drive has created the image of a teenager. In other countries and in other ages the teenager is another member of society, whom people envy for his youth, but the teenager is not regarded as an oddity on that account."

"I think we should regard this age group as the essentially fine group it is and not single it out for unwarranted attention—which I think it deserves," Mr. Bonner said.

Not All Bad

"I am convinced environment plays a major role in shaping the development of children, but on the other hand, not all youngsters who grow up in a bad environment are bad," says Victoria welfare administrator William Hooson.

"Parents have to practise what they preach. Whether we like it or not they are responsible for the behavior of their children," he says.

Too Permissive

"We seem to be in a stage of permissiveness. Psychologists and social workers, I think, have gone off the deep end a little too much on the subject of permissiveness," Mr. Hooson said.

"Good, stern discipline certainly has a place in home, school and the community," says Bernard Gillie, principal of S. J. Willis Junior High School and an authority on juvenile delinquency.

Wrong System

One wife of a provincial cabinet minister blamed the junior high school system for some of the delinquency problems.

"I still think children should remain in elementary school to Grade 8. Junior high school makes them grow up too quickly. They want to wear older-type clothes, but they are neither one thing nor the other in junior high school," she said.

"I think when they get there we expect too much from them, but they are really lost in a mob."

Adults Failed

"Youngsters today can see that adults haven't made much of a success of the world," points out Dr. W. L. Valens, director of the child guidance clinic in Victoria.

He says parents are a much maligned group of citizens and most are doing a good job, because the finger of criticism is so often pointed at them they feel very guilty and very inefficient.

"It is part of our function to take anxious and distressed parents and give them encouragement," he said.

He stressed the basic problem is the home situation of a child. A child needs acceptance and stability in the home situation. His basic need of feeling wanted and relatively secure is most important.

Dr. Valens said he wouldn't condemn rock 'n' roll music.

Too Short

"I believe children are not in school long enough. The school day is too short. There are too many idle hours. There should be longer time in the classroom, coupled with compulsory sport under proper organization," says Sidney Juvenile court judge Denzil Ashby.

"It is quite easy for a parent with the child's best interests at heart to err in raising a child," he said. "With one it could be because of being too strict, and with another too kind."

Control Lacking

"The public continually asks the school program to take over the responsibilities of the home and society," complained Education Minister Leslie Peterson. "The greatest amount of delinquency is after the children leave school. Certainly control and discipline are often lacking in homes."

Tomorrow we will talk about working mothers.

MONTREAL COLLEGE

Sir George Williams College in Montreal is named for the founder of the YMCA in Britain.

Hon. T. C. Davis Dies

An illustrious life ended yesterday for Hon. Thomas Clayton Davis of Victoria, a former diplomat, of whom Prime Minister Diefenbaker said, "a good citizen who served his country well."

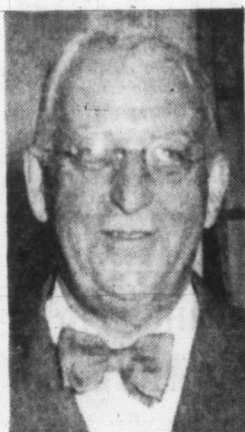

He died, apparently of a heart attack, while visiting friends in Vancouver. Mr. Davis was a politician, jurist and diplomat through the years.

Mr. Davis, 70, retired to Victoria after serving as ambassador to Japan from 1954 to 1957. But in "retirement" he was active: he was chairman of the corporation divisions of the Victoria University Building Fund drive, and he had flown to Vancouver Wednesday in the course of that work.

LONG CAREER

He started his long career in Prince Albert, Sask., the town where he was born. He served as alderman and then mayor, was later elected as a Liberal member of the Saskatchewan legislature, and was a cabinet minister in two Liberal governments of the province.

Mr. Davis was appointed Justice of the Saskatchewan Court of Appeal in 1939, and entered the diplomatic field in 1942 when he was appointed Canadian high commissioner to Australia. He held that post until 1946, when he was appointed ambassador to China.

HON. T. C. DAVIS

... "a good citizen"

Four years later he was named head of the Canadian mission to the Allied high command in West Germany, and in 1951, on resumption of diplomatic relations, he became first Canadian ambassador to West Germany.

He held that post until he was appointed ambassador to Japan in 1954.

MANY TRIBUTES

His sudden passing shocked and saddened many Canadians.

"I am saddened to learn of the passing of Hon. T. C. Davis who throughout his lifetime made a worthwhile contribution to Canada," said Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

"Tommy Davis was a good citizen who served his country well."

"I am both shocked and grieved at the death of one of my oldest friends and colleagues in government service," said Liberal leader Lester Pearson. "He was a unique ambassador in many ways, and one who made a great success of every post to which he was assigned."

"All of us who came to know the Hon. T. C. Davis during the busy years of his retirement in British Columbia were shocked to hear of his sudden death," said Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

LASTING TRIBUTE

"After years of distinguished service to his country, both in government and as a diplomat, Mr. Davis came to live in Victoria in 1957, and immediately became a leader in community service projects."

"Only this month he entered wholeheartedly into the fundraising campaign for the new University of Victoria, and the early signs of that campaign's success will stand, together with his many other accomplishments, as a lasting tribute to a good citizen."

Elevator Held Her Three Days

MIDDLEKERKE, Belgium (Reuters)—A 48-year-old housewife was trapped in an elevator here for three days and four nights.

Mrs. Georgette Kobia was the only tenant last week of a summer season apartment house in this seaside resort. Even her husband was away.

Finally an odd-job man rescued her.

700 B.C. Employers

Strike Limit
Asked by CMA

Delegates of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, representing some 700 B.C. employers, yesterday asked the provincial cabinet to set a time limit of not less than 10 days and not more than 21 days on strikes or lockouts after a strike or lockout vote has been taken.

They also asked that the labor minister notify both parties of the result not later than six days after the vote. The delegation explained the four days leeway was to allow for an orderly closing down of an industrial operation.

It was argued that existing regulations, allowing for a three-month period before a strike need be implemented, has led to situations where decisions to strike are not made seriously, "but only for the purpose of providing the negotiating committee with a big stick to hold over the head of the employer."

The delegation also asked cabinet to assume responsibility of sending to compulsory arbitration any dispute which would imperil the health and safety of the general public. Other proposals for amendments to the Labor Relations Act included:

1. A request for provision for the labor minister to call for a government-supervised secret vote of employees or employer organizations when a strike or lockout is in effect. "Too often, we believe, the details of offers made by the employer to the negotiating committee are not placed before the membership for their opinion," the brief said.

2. A request that certifications be granted only for specific operations in specific locations to prevent the existing practice of granting certifications for large geographical areas.

3. A suggestion that a vote of employees be taken in a unit where certification or de-certification is requested.

4. A recommendation that union-shop contracts be prohibited.

5. A recommendation that unions be required to submit annual financial statements to each union member.

Can This Be Victoria?
Housing Critic Asks

Did he find Victoria's newer homes to be the same "strawberry boxes" he complained of elsewhere in Canada?

VERY NICE

"They're very nice—they're fine—but they're just like the rest of Canada."

Why has urban sprawl developed?

"It has developed as a result of the bullying of the... gardening magazines and the Madison Avenue complex."

"You know the Madison Avenue complex—own a home of your own—everybody has to have a stake in America."

"Why do you have to own a home of your own?"

"Lots of people don't want to own a home of their own, they'd like to live in a nice apartment in the city—in the centre of things, close to the museum, close to a park, close to the library—but they can't because it costs too much."

VALID REASON

Is there a valid reason for living in the country aside from being a farmer?

"Yes, if you've got a pot full of dough."

Has he had any strong reaction to his "strawberry box" statement?

"You bet I have—here's a letter—... and as for your architecture I think it stinks, and that goes for your own house too."

"I sympathize with this man."

I know the way he feels—but I'm not annoyed at him, I'm not annoyed at the people."

"I'm annoyed that the people have no choice."

"I'm annoyed that people can't live where they want to live in the kind of accommodation they want to live in."

How about row housing, is that the answer?

"Row housing might be part of the answer, but you mention row housing in Canada, young man, and the hackles go up on the backs of 18,000,000 Canadians."

URBAN RENEWAL

"We must promote urban renewal—that is the answer."

"We must make our cities attractive—so attractive that people will want to live in them."

The Royal Architectural Institute's committee opens its one-day hearing here at 9:30 this morning in the Flame Room of the B.C. Electric Building.

With Mr. Pratt will be Peter Dorbush of Montreal, chairman of the committee, and John C. Parkin of Toronto.

The committee, which has travelled more than 12,000 miles and heard more than 300 briefs in its quest for an evaluation of the nation's residential districts, expects to have its findings in print by mid-summer.

CITY SCULPTURE

Place Queen's Bust in Park
Curtis to Urge Council

Ald. Austin Curtis will ask council to provide for the expenditure in advance of the 1960 budget.

Intermunicipal committee failed last year to come to agreement on sharing of this part of the cost of the royal visit. Esquimalt didn't want even to share in the $350 cost of the bust and Oak Bay showed disinclination to pay part of the cost of a pedestal and landscaping, which may add, said yesterday he will bring the total to nearly $1,000.

Sly Free-Loader
Leaves Bill Trail

TORONTO (CP)—Blue Cross medical plan officials have sent out an alert to all Ontario hospitals to watch out for a phantom-like patient who has been free-loading care and treatment for two years.

Using a false Alberta Blue Cross number, a trick back and an uncanny sense of timing, the man has left a trail of unpaid bills across the province, a Blue Cross official said today.

He insists on the best of everything, including drugs, good-looking nurses and absolute comfort.

"He demands the service of a luxury hotel, gets it and the hospital finds itself stuck with the bill," said Blue Cross manager Walter Cannon. "The man is driving me crazy."

Mr. Cannon thought the elusive patient had been arrested in Sudbury, until he learned the man had slipped out of town. Mr. Cannon believes he is at the Lakehead and is expecting another bill shortly.

Train Trip
To Aid Fund

COBBLE HILL — An Island excursion by train is being planned for June by the Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association to raise funds for the University of Victoria building campaign.

George Bonner, VIRA president, said the run would be between Victoria and Courtenay. It is hoped from 500 to 600 persons might be interested in the one-day junket.

Special train cars would be needed, and the CNR will likely be asked to bid on the excursion, said Mr. Bonner.

CNR equipment could be used because the large company has running rights over the E & N Railway, he said.

"It will help to get people using the train as well as benefit the university," he said.

TV to Probe for Jet

An underwater television camera will be used today to pinpoint the wreckage of a Comox-based CF-100 jet interceptor that crashed in Georgia Strait Tuesday near the up Island air station.

B.C. Sub Marine Operations Ltd., a Victoria firm specializing in underwater TV work—and possessing a TV camera capable of operating 1,000 feet below the surface, a range much deeper than any other such camera in Canada—was called into the search yesterday by the RCAF.

The request was made after an oil slick was sighted on the surface of the sea by searchers yesterday at a point six miles east of the Comox base.

During the day, six Esquimalt-based navy scuba divers searched shallower areas around what is believed to be the crash site. Divers have a depth range of 120 feet, but the plane is believed to be at least 250 feet down.

Operating the TV camera will be B.C. Sub Marine's Will Lawther, an ex-navy diving expert, and his chief technician, Dick Bowden.

The camera will be towed by a boat as it scans the depths for signs of the wreckage.

Meanwhile, RCAF men combed shores of Texada Island, about 13 miles east of Comox, for crash debris that floated there after the plane's plunge.

Two men were killed in the crash that occurred during a routine flight near the air base.

Silence is the Voice of Quality

Get behind the wheel of a 1960 Cadillac some day soon—point its handsome hood down your favorite stretch of highway—and listen!

Except for the occasional lullaby of the passing breeze, there will be literally nothing but silence to greet your ears.

But, oh, how meaningful that silence is!

For it speaks, with irrefutable logic, of the ingenuity of Cadillac design—and of the soundness of Cadillac engineering—and of the skill and integrity of Cadillac craftsmanship.

And just as silence is the voice of quality in a motor car—so quality, in its own turn, is the product of experience.

For almost six decades, Cadillac has devoted itself exclusively to the creation of the finest motor cars that the current automotive science would permit.

So rigid, in fact, has been Cadillac's adherence to the principles of quality that the two have become virtually inseparable in the public mind.

Never before, however, has this quest for perfection been as fruitful as in 1960.

In its styling and design, in its construction and assembly, and in its attention to detail—it is, far and away, the finest Cadillac yet.

We suggest that you see this new Cadillac—and drive it—and listen to it—very soon.

You'll find that the quiet of a Cadillac is the most eloquent sound in motordom. Give yourself this delightful experience today. Your Cadillac dealer is awaiting your visit.

Miss Sam Flies High

WALLOPS ISLAND, Va. (AP) — A six-pound girl monkey took a rocket ride more than nine miles up Thursday in a new test that advanced the chances of successfully launching men into space.

A one-ton space capsule, with Miss Sam inside, successfully underwent a simulated emergency escape from the rocket which propelled it 48,900 feet high.

The test was designed primarily to check the radio-controlled mechanism by which it is hoped the lives of human astronauts will be saved if they run into trouble during future rocket launchings.

It was the second such test. On Dec. 4 a male monkey survived a rocket trip 55 miles high.

Watching Thursday from a radar control tower about 400 feet from the rocket launching pad were two of seven Mercury astronauts who may be the first Americans launched into space.

After the capsule's separation from the launching rocket, it parachuted to the surface of a somewhat choppy sea 12 miles from this island, which is off Virginia's eastern shore and was picked up by helicopter.

New System May Predict Heart Attacks

MONTREAL (CP) — Doctors may soon be able to tell a person what his chances are of dying of a heart attack, Dr. Louis Horlick of the University of Saskatchewan said yesterday.

"When we have checked all known factors and found a total we will be able to warn a person of the risk," he said.

Police Invasion of Woman's Room Protested by Mine Union Convention

VANCOUVER (CP) — The convention of the western division of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Thursday protested the actions of three city drug squad officers who invaded the room of a woman delegate.

Mrs. Betty Donaldson of Trail said the officers were abusive to her and another woman delegate after taking over their room in a hotel to watch someone.

The hotel management told her no one had been given permission to enter the room.

BEHIND THE GLASS

By Jim Tang

There are times when it is harder to write things than usual. This is another of them.

In the short while I have been curling I got to know Billy Finlay well, and there was nothing but respect and admiration for the round little veteran who was a bigger figure on the Canadian sports scene than many realize. His sudden death yesterday morning has left a void for the hundreds who called him friend and for curling, his greatest love.

Billy was until a few years ago, when the heart condition which finally took his life called a halt to active participation, proof that you don't necessarily have to be big to be good.

As a youngster he was a standout lacrosse star, acclaimed by none other than Newsy Lalonde as "the fastest in the world." He took up curling early and played several rocks for the famed "Cassidy Kids," the first of the game's great rinks. The "Kids" were so good that the Chisholm draw was invented to prevent rinks from winning more than one event. In the early days, Billy and his rinkmates held up some bonspiels for two days because they were seldom knocked out of an event.

He organized the Wesley Baseball League in Winnipeg, had a hand in the formation of both the Canadian Lacrosse Association and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and claims for Foster Hewitt notwithstanding, was the first to broadcast a hockey game.

After moving to Vancouver, he skipped three B.C. Brier rinks—in 1939, 1940 and 1941. He was also at one time a commissioner for the Inter-City Lacrosse League.

There are other accomplishments, too. He became sports editor of the Winnipeg Free Press at the early age of 20. He moved to Vancouver in 1934 and spent 35 years with the Vancouver Sun, mostly as sports editor and promotions director.

He worked for all sports, but curling was his favorite. He was a life member of the Winnipeg Thistle Curling Club and the Vancouver Curling Club and in 1938 was made a life member of the Dominion Curling Association.

He "retired" just over a year ago, to take a job as manager of the New Westminster Curling Club, where he kept up his unflagging efforts in behalf of the game. Even at three score and 11 he left too soon but at least it was with the knowledge that his efforts had not gone unappreciated.

DOWN TO FOUR: Only four of the 12 rinks which entered the ladies' zone curling playdowns at the Victoria Curling Club are left with a chance to carry on to the Island final following last night's draw.

Flo Martin has completed the round-robin series and is assured of nothing worse than a tie with her 8.3 record. Betty Stubbs was beaten by Rene Robbins to lose her edge and is 6.3 and needing two wins to tie. Mrs. Robbins is 4.3 and Doris Fraser 3.3 and both will be busy indeed for the next few days unless they lose a fourth game early.

TWO FOR CERTAIN: At least two Victoria rinks are heading for the B.C. Bonspiel at Kelowna next month with the hope they will curl good enough to qualify for the provincial Consols final. It means getting to the finals in either of the two primary events, no small task in view of the strong entry already assured.

Gar Taylor, who got in the final through the "back door" last year, will try again with the same lineup which carried him to the Island zone final—Ralph Schmidt, Ken Sturrock and Laurie Perlette. And Tony Gutsoi, who missed the zone final for only the second time in six years when he was ousted in club playdowns, will try again with almost a brand-new rink. Gary Leibel will be throwing third rocks, Gordie Robertson will be at second and up front will be a fellow who thinks he at least has a chance to hold his own with Dick Beddoes.

A third Victoria rink is likely to be on the spot. Larry Marshall isn't likely to miss the B.C. Bonspiel and with Kirby Moysiey, Bill McLean and Joe Dukowski, among others, interested in going, something will almost certainly develop.

As for the 65th annual B.C. Bonspiel, it is already an assured success and has every chance of a record entry, a rather ironic situation in that it will likely be the last event of its kind if the Pacific Coast Curling Association gets its charter this year.

Officials reported last night that the entry had reached 65 rinks, including 45 visiting quartets. With all 10 zone champions expected to take part and a surge of entries likely as soon as the rest of the zone winners have been decided there is a good chance that the entry will be larger than the 89 rinks which competed at Penticton in 1958.

Fights Robinson Tonight

Pender Sorry for Career But Expects to Win Title

BOSTON (AP) — Paul Pender, who meets Sugar Ray Robinson for one version of the world middle-weight boxing championship tonight, says he regrets a long-ago decision to become a professional fighter.

"If I were 17, I'd be looking at the glamour and the challenge," he says. "Today, looking at it from an adult point of view, I say that advising anyone to be a fighter is the last thing I'd do."

Pender, 29-year-old fireman from Brookline, Mass., is the 10th-ranked challenger. He will fight Robinson, 39, and five times holder of the middle-weight crown, in a nationally televised bout for a version of the title recognized only in Massachusetts and New York. Robinson is favored by about 4 to 1.

Pender said he expects to win but is sorry he became a professional boxer.

"Truthfully, I got involved before I knew what was happening. It's not good for a family man. He could get a permanent injury—like going blind. And I don't forget, I have two children."

"I wonder if any profes-

Wireless Chess Match Ends in Draw

Members of the Victoria Chess Club played their first game by short-wave radio Wednesday night against team in Calgary. Moves from Calgary came in on receiving set of Harry Scott, 4581 West Saanich Road, who relayed them to the local players by telephone.

Pondering his next move against an unseen opponent is Dr. Simon Marin, member of six-man Victoria team that happily settled for draw. The match, first of its kind in western Canada, lasted seven hours, the delay mainly due to static interference.—(Colonist photos.)

Stan Musial Takes Cut

Stan Musial has taken his first pay cut in 19 years with St. Louis Cardinals of the National League. Stan, now 38, has dropped from his $100,000 salary to between $80,000 and $85,000.

The 1950 contract means that Musial is the first baseball player in the National League, if not in all baseball, to top the $100,000 mark in his career. His total now is about $1,050,000.

Babe Ruth, drew $946,000 in 22 years with New York Yankees, including world series cuts, and Joe DiMaggio drew $704,769 from the same club, also including world series pay.

Ted Williams, who has yet to sign for his 18th season with Boston Red Sox, may approach or top Musial's figure.

Musial's batting average skidded to .255 last year, first time he has hit less than .310 in the majors.

BILLY FINLAY ... death a shock

Western Canadian curlers are in mourning following the sudden death yesterday morning of popular Billy Finlay, one of the game's great players in his younger days and three times a Brier skip. He passed away 40 minutes after being rushed to hospital following a heart attack in his Vancouver home. He was 71. (See Jim Tang's Behind The Glass.)

Curfew Faces Comets

SPOKANE (AP) — Spokane Comets of the Western Hockey League, smarting from a 7-5 defeat by Seattle, Thursday placed an 11 p.m. curfew on players with the threat of fines for violations or lack of spirit.

Manager-coach Roy McBride put the squad through an hour of rough scrimmage Thursday morning after labeling Wednesday night's play against Seattle as atrocious.

McBride, who took over recently as coach as well as manager, said the curfew would be enforced both at home and on the road.

Habitants Cut Loose; Rangers Laced, 11-2

Montreal Canadiens gave hometown fans an awesome display of their scoring prowess last night by swamping New York Rangers, 11-2, and became the first National Hockey League team to reach double figures this season.

Showing an almost unlimited amount of power, the first-place Canadiens amassed 31 scoring points, six less than the NHL record set by Detroit in 1944.

Canadiens' win helped avenge four earlier losses to last-place New York. Montreal has lost only eight times in 43 games.

Leading Montreal's assault on New York goalie Lorne Blevins was Phil Goyette.

Worsley was centre Phil Goyette who scored three goals for the second consecutive time on home ice.

Bernie Geoffrion, Henri and Maurice Richard each scored twice while Marcel Bonin and Jean Beliveau added singles.

It was a nightmare for Worsley who stopped 32 of 43 shots and probably wished he had remained in exile with Springfield of the American League.

Meanwhile, Norm Ullman scored his first hat-trick in a five-year NHL career while playing Detroit Red Wings to a comeback 5-2 win over Boston Bruins in a game at Detroit.

The win enabled second-place Detroit to move three points ahead of Toronto Maple Leafs. Red Wings trail Montreal by 14 points.

Montreal grabbed a 3-0 lead in the first period against New York and added two more in the second before wrapping up the rout with a six-goal outburst in the final period.

Goyette scored twice in the second period and completed his hat-trick with six minutes remaining in the game. It gave him 15 goals for the season.

TWO FOR ROCKET Geoffrion scored both of his goals, giving him 18, in the final period as did Maurice Richard. The goals were the first the elder Richard has scored since returning to action a week ago after an 18-game injury layoff. He now has eight.

Rookie Ken Schinkel and Dean Prentice spoiled Jacques Plante's bid for the third shut-out with goals late in the final period. The pair connected within a space of 43 seconds.

At Detroit, Ullman scored once in the second period and completed his hat-trick with goals only 35 seconds apart in the third period.

Detroit's other goals were scored by defencemen Marcel Pronovost and Jerry Melnyk while Bronco Horvath and Don McKenney scored for Boston.

TIES WITH HULL Horvath gave Boston a 1-0 first, period lead with his 30th goal of the season, tops for the NHL, on a power play. It gave Horvath a tie for the scoring lead with Bobby Hull of Chicago.

Ullman and Melnyk scored for Detroit in the second with McKenney answering for Boston. Pronovost got the winner at 5:34 of the final before Ullman completed scoring with his 12th and 13th goals.

Montreal Players Make Big Jumps

A pair of wide-open National Hockey League games Thursday night accounted for several changes among individual scoring leaders.

Bronco Horvath of Boston scored his 30th goal of the season, tops in the NHL, and moved back into a tie for first place with Bobby Hull of Chicago. Each has 57 points.

Montreal players took advantage of an 11-2 win over New York to pad their totals.

Biggest move was made by Jean Beliveau who had a goal and three assists to move into third place.

Henry Richard had three points, swelling his total to 50 and moving him into fourth spot.

Andy Bathgate of New York had an assist but dropped to fifth while Dickie Moore and Bernie Geoffrion of Montreal had four and three points respectively to tie the Boston's Don McKenney for eighth place.

Rain, Wind Harass Bing Crosby Field

PERBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Gene Littler and Dick Knight, both of San Diego, braved rain and winds up to 45 miles an hour Thursday to share the first-round lead in the $50,000 Bing Crosby golf tournament with scores of 67, five under par.

Their shooting over the par-72 Monterey Peninsula Country Club course gave the two a three-stroke lead going into today's second round of the 72-hole tournament.

Tied in second place at 70 are Paul O'Leary of Bellflower, Calif.; Tommy Jacobs, Arcadia, Calif.; and Ken Venturi, Palo Alto, Calif. Only one golfer, little-known Huston La Clair of Birmingham, Ala., equalled par at Pebble Beach where one golfer described the weather conditions as "the worst I've ever seen."

Al Johnston of Montreal and Bill Ezinicki, former National Hockey League star playing out of Redding, Mass., were in an 11-way tie for 33rd position at 75. Ezinicki's total was made up of 35-40 and Johnston's 38-37.

Other Canadians were not among the top 54 finishers. Al Balding of Toronto shot 39-38—77; Stan Leonard, Vancouver, 38-40—78; Jerry Magee, Toronto, 40-38—78; and Henry Dubell, Quebec City, 45-40—85.

Four teams shade the lead in the pro-amateur best-ball division with scores of 64. Tied pro Johnston and amateur L. G. Blue, Sanger, Calif.; pro Jimmy Clark, Huntington Beach, Calif., and amateur Bill Ransom, West Los Angeles; pro Jack Fleck, Northridge, Calif., and ex-baseball slugger Ralph Kiner of Palm Springs, Calif., and pro George Bayer with Morgan Bornofsky of Pleasant Hills, Calif.

Pro J. Goosie, Knoxville, Tenn., and amateur W. H. Ripley, Calgary, had a best-ball score of 71; Balding and amateur W. D. Brady, Calgary, teamed for a 73, and amateur Max Bell, also of Calgary, and pro Gay Brewer, Crystal River, Fla., fired 76.

Space Stocks

At New York

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks enjoyed their third advance of the new year, paced by steels, electronics and space age stocks. Trading held at a moderate pace.

The rise was seen as technical following the declines of the previous four sessions.

Many brokers believe the January decline had gone far enough to attract buyers with "bargain basement" prices.

The bulls were disappointed, however, because the rise was not accompanied by a jump in volume.

Lukens stood out in the steels with a rise of about 2 points. Youngstown and Wheeling rose around 1 1/2 and U.S. Steel about 1.

The electronics showed Magnavox up around 2, and Ampex, Litton and Texas Instruments all gaining more than 1.

American Motors jumped more than a point in the autos which continued their four-year high production pace this week. General Motors, Ford and Chrysler firmed.

Rails also started, with Norfolk & Western up nearly 2, and Baltimore & Ohio and Illinois Central each up around a point.

Du Pont, Union Carbide, Eastman Kodak, Dow and Thiokol all rose more than a point in the chemicals. Oils moved fractionally higher.

Uptrend Resumed

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market advanced for the first time in four days amid some of the lightest trading in recent weeks.

Dominion Glass scored the best industrial win of the day going up 1 1/2 at 89 1/2.

Company of Canada, which has been on the decline for sometime, jumped ahead one point at 82. Algoma Steel was up 1/2 at 38.

Bank of Nova Scotia was the heaviest loser going down 1/4 at 67 1/4.

Mines were active and some of the lower-priced issues traded well over 100,000 shares.

The week's most active minor mining stock, Jack Waite, announced from New York that it has entered an agreement with Simons Iron Corp. covering 75 copper claims in northeastern Quebec.

Simons is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Canadian Pacific Ltd. The Toronto Stock Exchange, however, has not yet given approval of the agreement. A spokesman of the exchange said it is asking for more details of the transaction.

Base Metals Gain

MONTREAL (CP)—Prices were irregularly lower in fairly quiet trading.

Gains in paper stocks came from Howard Smith, up 1/2 at 44 1/2. Great Lakes 1/4 at 38 1/2. Consolidated 1/4 at 41 1/2 and Anglo-Newfoundland 1/4 at 6 1/2 and Powell River 1/4 at 17 1/2.

Aluminum and Hudson Bay both gained 1/2 in base metals at 31 1/2 and 51 1/2 respectively.

Asbestos lost 1/2 at 25.

In utilities, gains were reported by Brazilian Traction, up 10 cents at $4.00, Shawinigan, up 1/2 at 30 and losses from Bell, down 1/2 at 43 1/2, B.C. Power 1/4 at 35, Gaietone 1 at 34 1/2, and Quebec Natural Gas 1/4 at 16 1/2.

Montreal Bonds

MONTREAL (CP)—The Montreal bond market was again quiet and there were no changes in the Canadas, corporates and recent CNR issues.

Saanich Out to Corral Area's Light Industry

Plan Would Provide Non-Residence Zone

By TERRY HAMMOND

Saanich council is today studying an all-embracing industrial zoning plan designed to corral for the area's fastest-growing municipality all of Greater Victoria's new light industry up to 1976.

To meet a Capital Region Planning Board forecast calling for 82 additional acres of industrial land for Greater Victoria in the next 16 years, Saanich planners have come up with a program which offers a total of 94.34 acres in three-stage development of three adjacent areas.

The plan is designed primarily to put on an even keel the municipality's lopsided tax base which at present derives 91 per cent of the municipality's total tax requirement from residential development and only 4 per cent from industrial development.

Remainder comes from agricultural and commercial land and improvements.

The proposed new industrial zone would gobble up most of 50 acres of an existing industrial zone which runs in a two-blocks-wide strip along Douglas Street from Tolmie to Cadillac.

Demolition of Homes

Fully implemented it would bring about the demolition of substandard homes which now occupy approximately 46 acres of land.

Some 15 acres of land in the industrial zone now occupied by adequate homes which are likely to become substandard within the next 16 years would also be made available for industrial development through demolition.

Most westerly of the three areas in the industrial zone would be bounded by Tolmie on the south, Douglas on the east, Whittier on the west and Cuddehne and Regina on the north.

In this area nearly 15 acres

Offers 11.25 Acres

This area offers 11.25 acres of presently vacant land, 19.05 acres of land occupied by substandard housing and a fraction of an acre occupied by "relatively good housing."

With this area as its westerly boundary, a third "reserve area" for expansion of the industrial zone exists with Saanich Road as its north boundary, Bethune and Maple Street extended on the east and Tolmie on the south.

It boasts 6 1/2 acres of vacant land, 3.16 acres of land occupied by substandard homes and 10.37 acres of land occupied by relatively good homes, and would be the last of the three to be incorporated into the overall industrial zone.

The plan advocates road closures embracing Ardersier from Tennyson to Whittier, Burns Avenue from Boleskine to Kelvin, Davidson between Cuddehne and Boleskine, Leech east of Burns, Gray south of Ardersier, Audley east of Douglas, and Roderick east of Oak.

Valley Avenue would be cancelled or redesigned and the same fate would face Shamrock east of Oak.

Largely Redesigned

The road pattern within the reserve area to the east "will have to be largely redesigned," regardless of whether it remains residential or becomes industrial, the report states. Adoption of the industrial zone proposal would put an immediate halt to residential development within the designated area and it would become one of the first industrial zones on Vancouver Island in which residential building would not be permitted.

The zoning plan points out that industries settled in an

Special Works Plan

The zoning area report advocates a special public works plan for the area in order to make it attractive to industry, and calls for strict regulation of the appearance of new industrial buildings, plus mandatory provisions of paved off-street parking based on the floor area and type of plant.

Acquisition of privately-owned land within the area, including that already occupied by homes, could be accomplished in one of two alternative ways, Saanich planner Antony Parr said last night.

He said the municipality could simply provide the zoning, the regulations and the improvements and leave purchase of sites up to individual industries, or, if the money was available, it could buy the land itself, supervise demolition or removal of homes, and resell to industry.

Parking areas would have to be screened off from public sight and landscaping would be required.

Plants and factories would cover not more than 70 per cent of the site on which they stand, and height would be restricted to five storeys or 60 feet.

Minimum lot area would be 6,000 square feet and a front yard area 25 feet in depth would have to be provided and landscaped.

Flu Hitting Adults, Children Scot-Free

A form of flu appears to be striking many adult Victorians, but still isn't affecting school children to any marked extent, district medical health officer Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy said yesterday.

"Maybe they're being let off this time," Dr. Mahaffy smiled.

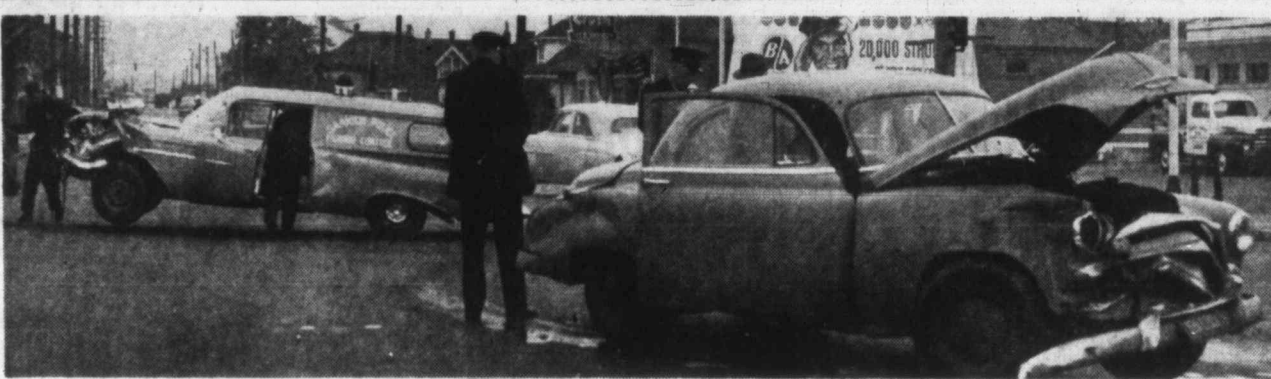

Actual extent of the outbreak among adults isn't known, the health officer said, because influenza is not a reportable disease, physicians are not called upon to notify the health department of cases treated. But as an example, almost a third of the public health nursing staff has been away with it, she said.

Outbreaks in the United States have been described as Asian flu, but Dr. Mahaffy said Victoria's flu could be identified only by sending samples for laboratory examination in Ottawa.

Archie Gibbs 'Satisfactory'

Archie Gibbs, member of the legislature for Oak Bay, was listed in "satisfactory" condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital last night following a major operation.

No one was seriously injured in this spectacular crash between Saanich police ambulance and private car at right. Accident occurred about 12.40 p.m. yesterday at Hillside and

Wet, Reeking Bunk Held Five Children

Parents Lose Family

A Saanich mother and father were found guilty in police court yesterday of failing to provide the necessities of life for their six small children under conditions termed "disgraceful" by Magistrate William Ostler.

Raymond and Shirley Price, 3249 Maple, were remanded to Feb. 9 for preparation of a probation report. Their six children meanwhile will remain in foster homes, where they have been cared for since the parents' arrest early Jan. 14.

CALLING AT HOME

Constables Jack Stone and Bob Peterson of Saanich police told of calling at the Price home shortly after 8 p.m. Jan. 13. Mr. Price was home. Mrs. Price was not. After looking around, the officers called in Frank Heaton, Saanich welfare administrator.

All three said they found: Mr. Price on a chesterfield in the living room, which was heated by a small burner and in which there was spilled milk, sugar and trinkets on the floor.

RANCID BOTTLE

In a mattress-less crib in the same room was 11-month-old Raymond Price, wet, lying on pieces of wet cloth, with a plastic nursing bottle, the contents of which, on investigation, smelled rancid.

In a bedroom off the kitchen they found no heat and no light, but two double-bunk beds.

Said Mr. Heaton:

"The odor was abominable. Three of the bunks were empty and had no mattresses."

NOT AN INCH DRY

"In one top bunk I saw, by flashlight, what appeared to be bundles of rags. I lifted them up, and counted four children. Not a square inch of the mattress appeared dry, top or bottom."

"I asked Mr. Price why the children were in such deplorable condition. He replied, 'That's my wife's job.'"

Only food the officers and Mr. Heaton could find in the house was a small bag of sugar, part of a bag of porridge oats, two bottles of spice sauce. Later Mr. Price said there was also part of a can of milk and part of a pound of margarine.

ARRANGEMENTS MADE

Arrangements were made, court was told, to have the family and children's Service bring mattresses, blankets and food to the house, and the officers left with the understanding that conditions would be corrected.

They returned shortly after midnight, when Mrs. Price was home.

They found no change, except that the baby was being given a bottle in the parents' bedroom, and that a fifth child had joined the other four in the same top bunk.

PARENTS ARRESTED

The parents were then arrested and the children taken to foster homes.

"Taking the stand themselves, the Prices denied mistreatment. The father said he was a seaman and away from home a lot. His salary went into the bank where his wife drew on it for necessities."

Both said Mrs. Price did her food shopping daily, as there was no refrigerator for storing food.

SEEMS OBVIOUS

Said Magistrate Ostler:

"It seems perfectly obvious that most people would not bed their animals down in conditions as disgusting as those at the time."

"There is no direct evidence of illness or hunger among the children, but to my mind destitute and necessitous circumstances (noted in the charge) might embrace other things from illness or hunger."

The haggis, sampled at noon by Scots and many adventurous other members of the civic staff, has been donated by John Ingram Smith.

Mr. Smith retired in 1959, and it looked as if a tradition had come to an end.

But he'll be back for a day Monday, he has told the city clerk—and so will the haggis.

1,700 Trees to Be Planted Between Now and April

City parks department will plant about 1,700 trees in boulevards between now and April 1, Parks Administrator W. H. Warren said yesterday. About 200 of them will replace old or diseased trees. Most of the remainder will be planted on James Bay streets. Mr. Warren said, "It's the biggest program we ever have had." The department is making up for lost time after losing much stock in the severe freeze-up three years ago.

'Power Is Key To B.C. Future'

JOHN WEICKER

Seen In Passing

John Weicker compounding a prescription at his Oak Bay Avenue drug store. He and his wife, Irma, live at 2023 Newton with their six children, Linda, 10, David, 9, Kenneth, 7, Alan, 6, Stephen, 3, and Mary Jo, 1. Mr. Weicker is president of the Oak Bay Board of Trade and president of the South Vancouver Island Druggists' Association. His hobby is 10-pin bowling. . . . Bruce Palmer all set for a flying trip. . . . Clem Such having a late evening snack. . . . John Whitehead walking into the courthouse. . . . Michael Williams admiring a Pekingese dog. . . . Ted Pistell showing neighbors the new bare look on Irma Street since the "Mary" departed.

"Power" is the key word in considering the future development of British Columbia, Attorney-General Robert Bonner told members of the Oak Bay Kiwanis Club last night.

"There is no hydro installation now that is not committed to present or future use," he said. "Any large block of industry in the province will need a large source of electrical energy."

"By 1975 we need to find 9,000,000 horsepower. The Fraser River can't be used because of the fishing industry. The Columbia has a potential of 4,000,000 and the Peace River has an estimated potential of 4,000,000. If we are to realize any of our plans for the future of the province we must have this power."

Mr. Bonner presented a list of figures to trace the estimated growth of B.C. in the 1960s.

Total labor force in the province, now 560,000, will jump to 775,000 in the next 10 years, he said.

Per capita income in the province, he said, will jump from $1,777 to $2,200.

Grounded Ship Floats Free

The Songhee, 95-foot auxiliary naval vessel which ran aground on a sandbar in Nanose Bay Wednesday afternoon, floated free on a high tide at 9 a.m. yesterday. She will return to base at Patricia Bay upon completion of work at Nanose Bay.

Six people went to hospital yesterday following an accident involving a Saanich police ambulance and a private car—but the only one admitted was an infant being rushed to hospital by the ambulance.

CALL TO POLICE

The chain of circumstances began at 12.36 p.m. with a call to city police from the Doctors' Directory, reporting a child had been injured in a fall at 1170 Clovelly Terrace.

The call was referred to Saanich police, and Const. Norman Baker responded with an emergency vehicle. He found May Hillborn, seven-week-old daughter of Mrs. Jenny Hillborn semi-conscious after a fall.

SIREN SOUNDING

The baby, the mother and her son Bruce, 4, were taken in the police vehicle which started off for the hospital, siren sounding and red light flashing.

At Quadra and Hillside the ambulance collided with a car driven west on Hillside by Frederick I. Smith, 79, of 3228 Kingsley.

The crash brought a renewed plea from police officials of Greater Victoria for drivers to be alert for sight or sound of emergency vehicles.

PULL TO SIDE

"If they can't be seen at once, they can be heard while some distance away," they said. "It then becomes the duty of all other drivers to pull to the side—even if facing the oncoming ambulance—and stop until the emergency car has gone by."

"Failure to do so is not only an offence under the Motor Vehicle Act, it could well be fatal."

"In yesterday's accident seven people might have been killed."

Mr. Smith, his son Ronald, 29, of 577 Hampshire, and granddaughter Shannon, 5 1/2, were taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital, where all were found to have suffered only bruises and abrasions. All were released.

ANOTHER CAR

Mrs. Hillborn and her children were taken in another city police car to St. Joseph's Hospital, and Mrs. Hillborn treated for a sore ankle and foot. Bruce was unhurt, and he and his mother were released.

Baby May was admitted for further observation.

Four-Year-Old Wanderers Hunt Firecracker Store

Two four-year-old Langford adventurers, missing more than five hours yesterday, were found by RCMP on their way to Sooke on the Sooke highway at 6.45 p.m.

The pair, Ron Fletcher, 783 Meaford, and Allan Cook, 767 Meaford, "were just out for a walk," they said.

Allan said "we went for a walk looking for a store that sold firecrackers."

RCMP along with 25 Langford volunteer firemen and 10 civilian volunteers were starting an intensive search of the area when the boys were found by Constable Gerald O'Neill and Harry Wallace.

Trouble Never Lasts Long

Recovering swiftly from serious injuries he received when run over by a truck at Sooke last Friday, seven-year-old David Planes smiles cheerily at Colonist photographer Bud Kinsman who visited him at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Bonner Believes

Only City, Saanich In Family Court

A family court for Greater Victoria is definitely in the offing, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said yesterday, but at the outset it will probably involve only Victoria proper and Saanich.

Mr. Bonner made the statement following a meeting with Esquimalt council to discuss establishment of such a court.

"This is not to imply that the other municipalities won't be in it eventually," he said. "But it is my impression that they won't be formally associated with it at the outset."

Then, as an afterthought, he added that this observation "might not hold true for Oak Bay."

Smith Back On Monday, Haggis, Too

For years, on the morning of Robert Burns' birthday, the steamy smell of haggis has drifted down the stairs from the employees' lunchroom at city hall.

The haggis, sampled at noon by Scots and many adventurous other members of the civic staff, has been donated by John Ingram Smith.

Mr. Smith retired in 1959, and it looked as if a tradition had come to an end.

But he'll be back for a day Monday, he has told the city clerk—and so will the haggis.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: My husband has been doing a good bit of reading on adult-child relationships and he has decided that every father should be a pal to his son.

Our only boy is 10. My husband is 44. Recent psychological findings, according to my husband, indicate most kids are scared stiff of their parents. These authorities claim a relaxed "buddy" atmosphere creates a healthy emotional climate.

Some of our older friends who bought this theory turned out spoiled, selfish kids who walk all over them. I don't go along with it personally, but he says it's sound. MAY I have your views?—MOMMER.

Dear Mommer: Your husband must be reading old books. According to recent psychological findings it's the parents who are scared stiff of their kids. Too much permissiveness has put kids in the driver's seat.

A father should be a father. What 10-year-old kid wants a 44-year-old pal? A healthy father-son relationship is one which is relaxed and friendly. When Dad gets palsy-walsy he destroys the symbol of authority which every child needs to guide him through childhood and adolescence.

Keep Him in Line

Dear Ann: I have a question several of my girl friends would like answered. If you print this letter you'll be doing a lot of teenagers a big favor.

How can a girl keep a fellow interested without letting him get away with murder, if you know what I mean? My best friend who has gone steady with four different guys says the best technique is to let a boy advance gradually. I don't think this is a good idea because it's a one-way street to you know where.

Another girl in our crowd, who is a top student and leader in school government, says the best policy is to stay sweet and innocent and let the boys know where you stand. She may be

He's a Common Thief

Dear Ann: That letter from Nanette who complained because her boy friend thought it was cute to swipe things from restaurants needs a sequel.

The boy, of course, is a common thief. He can call it souvenir hunting if he likes—it's still stealing. The guy probably orders a 30-cent sandwich and walks out with $3 worth of swag.

I'm in the restaurant supply business. China cups cost 70 cents apiece, plates are $24 a dozen. Stainless steel spoons are 20 cents. Tea and coffee pots are $2.50 each. These are wholesale prices.

I hope Nanette will chuck the cluck. He sounds like the type who'd buy her a soda, order two straws then try to steal her virtue as compensation.—DAYTON DAN.

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teenage Smoking," enclosing with your request 10

Hats Drop Tears

FLORENCE, Italy (UPI)—Zany, anything goes accessories added pepper and spice to Italian spring and summer fashion collections in the Pitti Palace.

Wacky ideas go to the head faster than pink champagne—as proved by the hats appearing in Florence.

Valdtevere thinly disguised models as extras for the opera "Aida." His silk Egyptian head dresses came straight out of King Tut's tomb.

The dainty derby much fancied by Peruvian Indian ladies took a bow in the Emilio Pucci collection with the addition of silk ear flaps that tie under the chin.

Sparkling tear drop rhinestones dangle from the crown of a wide-brimmed red beach hat by Myricae. Whisk-broom cockades sprout from the top of other Myricae summer straws.

Roberto Capucci whipped up a frothy half-wig, half-hat concoction in brown chiffon. The coil trails off into a long pony tail and from a distance it looked alarmingly like hair. Paolo, a Florentine artisan who transforms straw into fantastic textures and shapes, presented a realistic pink rose that sits on top of the head.

Cranbrook Home For Newlyweds

In a candle-light ceremony at the First United Church, Joan Elizabeth Archer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Archer, 3109 Yew Street and Mr. Jon Milos MacKinnon, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. MacKinnon, 1123 Rockland Ave. were united in marriage by Rev. A. I. Higgins.

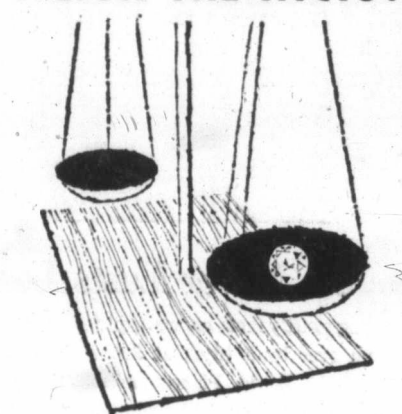

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a waltz length gown of white brocade and a shoulder length veil and carried a cascade of white roses.

Miss Jane MacKinnon, sister of the groom, and Miss Lesley Hebban, cousin of the bride, wore identical dresses of stiffened blue lace with head bandeaux. Their bouquets were white carnations. Mr. Donald MacKinnon was best man for his brother and Mr. Hugh Archer, usher.

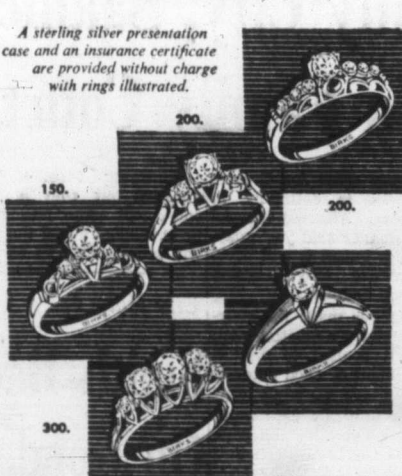

Following the reception, the bride donned a beige brushed mohair suit with dark brown accessories and a gardenia corsage. The young couple will make their home in Cranbrook, B.C.

What's Cooking!

Mustn't Mix Muffins

By LOUISE MOORE

Muffins take but moments to make if the ingredients are assembled the night before, ready for last-minute mixing—and the less mixing the better. You will be rewarded with better texture, a lighter, more tender muffin if the dry ingredients are sifted into one bowl, the melted fat and liquid in another and the two put together with the minimum of mixing; just enough for the dry ingredients to become moistened.

Any mild fat may be used in making muffins and for bacon muffins bacon fat imparts a delicious flavor.

BASIC MUFFINS
Sift into a good-sized bowl: 2 cups pastry flour, 1/2 tsp. salt, 3 tsp. baking powder, 3 to 4 tblsp. sugar depending on sweetness liked. Measure out 1 cup milk and add 1 large well beaten egg and 4 tblsp. melted butter or other shortening. Quickly combine dry ingredients mixing only until all dry ingredients are moistened. Do not beat.

Spoon the batter into greased muffin pans. Use a metal spoon dipped in water so batter won't stick. Fill pans 3/4 full. Bake in hot oven (400) until nicely browned—about 20-25 minutes depending on size of muffins.

For bacon muffins cut down on the sugar—2 tblsp. would be enough—and add bits of cooked bacon to the dry ingredients. Raisins may also be added.

For nut muffins add 1/2 cup chopped walnuts to dry ingredients. Raisins may also be added.

Tips for Parents

Cheating at Six Not Uncommon

By HELEN R. HEWSON

"I am concerned about an incident that occurred recently," writes a worried mother. "We visited my husband's mother, some distance away.

"The first evening after we had put the little one to bed, the two older children were playing a variation of the old favorite parlor game.

"We adults were talking. All was quiet and peaceful when suddenly there was an explosion.

"Eight-year-old Jane yelled, 'Stop it!' and slapped her younger brother across the face. 'Cheater, cheater, you dirty cheater!' she yelled. Brother retaliated and there was quite a battle for a few seconds.

"The children were blazing mad and grandmother was upset.

"We calmed them a bit and put them to bed, feeling that they must have been more tired than we realized.

"Later I recalled hearing Jane accuse her brother of cheating on other occasions. But I had been busy in another room and they seemed to settle their differences without violence.

"Our son is an only grand-son and bears his grandfather's name. Grandmother was really disturbed and fears the boy will not bring honor to the name. Could she be right?" No one can foretell the future accurately, but we would think that in your son's case it is hopeful. The tone of your letter indicates that he has sensible and conscientious parents.

You do not mention his age, but as he is less than eight and able to play table games, perhaps he is about six. We know it takes time to learn to walk, to talk, to spell, etc., but we forget that it also takes time to learn our complex and often confusing social and moral standards.

Cheating at six years is not uncommon, especially when competing with older, more skillful children. Perhaps the eight-year-old (usually a self-righteous age, having just mastered some of the intricacies of honesty) could be helped to say firmly but good-naturedly, "Fair game, no cheating."

It would also be a help if father or mother could play with the children occasionally. They could help the younger one to bear his losses and also let him win now and then. Gradually he will learn to enjoy playing for its own sake.

Finds Civil Defence Course Stimulating

By DOROTHY WROTNOWSKI

Generally speaking women don't know enough about civil defence to be interested in it, says Mrs. B. R. Grant. And Mrs. Grant should know of what she speaks as she is ambulance officer at Victoria civil defence headquarters, a position she has held since 1952.

Mrs. Grant would like to see more women take a course in civil defence, just two hours a week for six weeks. In this way they would know what service they would choose if there were an emergency.

Women were the backbone of civil defence during the last war for the simple reason that most men were in active services, said Mrs. Grant. She was in charge of an ambulance depot in her native Glasgow from 1939 to 1945.

ARNPRIOR COURSE

Mrs. Grant returned at the weekend from Arnprior, Ont., where she took an advanced ambulance instructor's course. There were 20 men taking instructor courses and 40 on rescue work—and one woman, Mrs. Grant.

Mrs. Grant was first billeted in the women's barracks but she thinks the men felt sorry for her all alone in such a big building and she was moved to the VIP suite next to the administrative officer's house. It was wonderful to watch the rescue teams at work, Mrs. Grant said.

Training Takes Place

place in the large hangars in the one-time air force station. Particularly interesting demonstrations were the rescue from the roof of a high building and from a smoke filled, burning building.

DIGGING OUT

Mrs. Grant found her course stimulating even though it was pressurized. She attended classes from 8.30 to 5 p.m. every day of the 10-day course.

"Weatherwise the East wasn't

MRS. B. R. GRANT

so interesting. Twice she had to dig herself out of her quarters the snow was so deep.

Another not so pleasant experience was flying home when the Vancouver airport was socked in and after circling awhile the plane flew to Abbotsford to land.

KEEPS ACTIVE

Although civil defence might be Mrs. Grant's main interest outside her home she keeps active in other fields. She is treasurer of the Victoria Toastmistress Club and corresponding secretary of the International Toastmistress Council. She is also immediate past president of the St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society.

Like many Scotswomen Mrs. Grant is keen about cooking and is proud of her prowess with little pancakes. She is also proficient with a sewing machine and manages to make most of her own clothes.

HERE 13 YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. Grant came to Victoria in 1947 and Mr. Grant joined the staff of the Empress Hotel the first week they arrived.

Their son, Douglas Grant is with the city police, and their daughter, Mrs. Victor Pampu, lives here.

"We are all Canadians now said Mrs. Grant, and we all like the Canadian way of life."

Garden Notes

Delightful Primrose

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRIS.

When I first came to Victoria... never you mind how many years ago... I think the plant that delighted me the most was the polyanthus primrose. For years before this, my job had shunted me about from pillar to post, living successively in Toronto, Calgary, Regina, Winnipeg and Hamilton, and in every town where we set up housekeeping, I tried to grow polyanthus. All were miserable failures until we came here.

The eastern summers were too hot for the plant, and the western winters were too cold. So when our good fortune finally brought us to a climate where the winters were mild and the summers cool, I was writing away for polyanthus seeds before the time. I think I have grown just about every strain known to horticulture, and I find the trying of a new batch of seed from some new source just as exciting today as it was in those early days.

One bitter disappointment was the Gold Laced polyanthus. I had read so much about this little primrose—about the keen competition among the Lancashire weavers to grow perfect exhibition flowers, with each petal edged by a narrow band of scintillating gold—that I couldn't wait to try it. Seeds were hard to come by, but I finally found a source in England, and the waiting was intolerable as the first buds formed on my seedling plants.

Frankly, my Gold Laced polyanthus were a washout. The pipes were small—not any bigger than a dime—and there were only four or five to the cluster. The colors were dull, mostly a purplish maroon, and while the edging was there, it was more of a pale lemon than a true gold shade.

The next I tried was the Munstead strain, raised by the famous Gertrude Jekyll from an odd plant found in her English garden in 1880. These were more like it, with beautiful large pipes, mostly in shades of yellow and red, heavily clustered on strong stems.

Since that time, the English firms of Blackmore & Langdon and Sutton & Sons have done an enormous amount of work in improving the strain, with the result that modern English polyanthus have been stepped up, not only in the quality of the bloom and habit, but also in the color range, which is unbelievably wide.

While I hate to admit it, I believe that Britain has lost the lead to the United States in the development of the polyanthus primrose. From one single plant secured right here in Victoria, the Barnhaven Gardens at Gresham, Ore., have bred a race known as the Silver Dollar strain, in which the florets or pipes are actually the size of a silver dollar. The rich colors of the blooms are accentuated by a complete lack of any eye, and the colors range all the way from a violet-grey to a smoky-red.

From the same raiser, Barnhaven Gardens, comes the amazing Kwan Yin strain, bearing large, flat blooms in the most fantastic shades. Brick red, cherry, tomato and an extremely brilliant orange all appeared from my first sowing of the Kwan Yin primroses.

I will have two new experiments on the fire this year, with two new strains of seed ordered from their raiser, Harrison & Co. of New Zealand. One is called Tango Supreme, reported to produce very heavy clusters of flowers in orange, buff, terra cotta and vermilion. The other is another Harrison creation, as yet unnamed, which is supposed to produce bicolor flowers in mixtures of cream and pink shades.

The Viewing World

4,000 Feet Under the Sea

"Wait until you see the Conquest show we did on the Bathyscaphe out in San Diego. The Pacific Ocean was our set and there we were—out on the bounding main. We broke our lines, had trouble with sharks, and we got all this on film. These shows are science and adventure shows and they're fascinating," said Charles Collingwood before the season started.

Fascinating it was, too. The bottom-of-the-sea report showed the descent of the Trieste to the ocean floor in the San Diego trough. Collingwood interviewed the two scientists, Dr. Jacques Piccard, and Dr. Andreas Rechnitzer, who took the plunge, as the sea heaved and bobbed outside. Then there were films of the ocean floor which was remarkably empty at 4,000-odd feet. Next to going down there yourself, this was the best thing.

Conquest, in short, does many of those things that I always thought television was for—take us to places no one has ever been, teach us things we ought to know, before I found out that television's real function was to inform us of the underarm problems of statues. As such Conquest is the legitimate successor to Adventure of some years back, of which Collingwood was also the narrator and host. Adventure found its material in museums, mostly the Museum of Natural History. Conquest's world is broader.

The whole world of science is Conquest's particular oyster and this leads it into fascinating byways. This year the program opened with a study of mother love that had everyone babbling with excited wonder for days. Occasionally, the program wanders into fields that will scare the pants off you.

I watched with horror one day while a scientist reproduced the mating calls of grasshoppers. Lo and behold, the female grasshopper came and crawled all over the fellow's face. Reproducing a certain sound, even a certain rhythm, would make the insect's legs work galvanically. Makes you wonder what they could do to us, if they got this thing perfected.

Making science comprehensible to people like me has been something beyond the reach of scientists until comparatively recently. Now they're getting closer to this impossible goal. Either I'm getting brighter or they are getting more understandable. With the help of film and more of Mr. Collingwood's expert and simple narration, I've found myself comprehending many aspects that were out of my grasp hitherto.

Among the subjects the program either has or will take up soon are embryology or life before birth, Darwin's theory of evolution, atomic fallout or human radiation, hynosis, the world of tuberculosis, and gerontology which, as a matter of fact, was the subject last Sunday. The title was "Can Man Live Forever?"

Filed on location in Baltimore, the program showed the actual research being conducted with older people by Dr. Nathan Shock, who is trying to learn why and how we grow older, and how to slow down the aging process.

This is the opposite of escapism. This is Lets-Face-Itism and, frankly, I find it much more interesting. The world is such a fascinating place—why we have to roll in improbable Westerns for amusement, I cannot understand. Heaven knows, Conquest isn't hard viewing because if I can understand it, the rest of you should have no trouble whatsoever.

Hollywood Today

'Misfits' Meets Mishaps

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — More problems for Marilyn Monroe: she's due to start "The Misfits," a movie written especially for her by husband Arthur Miller, in March, and the cameras must start rolling in March because co-stars Clark Gable, Montgomery Clift, Eli Wallach and Thelma Ritter have other commitments shortly thereafter. There are three obstacles—her long-delayed "Let's Make Love" is only just beginning in Hollywood; the screen actors may go on strike at the end of this month, and director John Huston is having trouble with his leg, broken in a hunting accident in Ireland.

Jack Lemmon, Marilyn's co-star in "Some Like It Hot," is preparing a new record album titled "Some Like It Cool."

Jan Sterling is selling the big house in Hollywood Hills where she lived so happily with Paul Douglas, who died recently. Paul bought the house from actor Melvyn Douglas.

The rich grow richer: Fred Macmurray's northern California ranch has produced $300,000 worth of salable black Angus cattle for the coming year.

By Sheilah Graham

Alfred Hitchcock calls Vera Miles "the prettiest boy in town." Vera's hair, trimmed close to scalp for "Jovanka," is very Mary Martinish.

Jeff Morrow, who made his film debut for Henry Koster in "The Robe," is working for Henry again at 20th-Fox in "The Story of Ruth," some 17 pictures and 200 TV shows later.

Londoners will have a chance to see Kay Kendall's last movie around the end of March when "Once More with Feeling" gets a charity premiere, with Princess Margaret in attendance.

James Mason's mother-in-law, wealthy Mrs. Isadore Ostrer, has arrived from London to spend a month with James, daughter Pamela, and grandchildren Porty and Poopsie. Mr. Ostrer owns movie houses and textile plants in England.

Haya Harareet, the brunette lovely of "Ben-Hur," has been dating Thor Dickinson, now with the United Nations in New York. Thor directed Haya in "Hill 24 Does Not Answer."

Formosa Notebook

By Peter Worthington

'We Feared Turks—Very Brave'

(This is another in a series on the embattled Chinese Nationalist island outpost of Formosa.)

TAIPEI, Formosa (TNS) — The three Chinese men whose names sounded like ringing chimes, marched into the room and sat down.

They seemed ill at ease in their rumpled suits and tightly-knotted neckties. Introductions were made through an interpreter.

The three are citizens of Nationalist China, working for the propaganda department. But eight years ago they were in the Red Chinese army fighting the United Nations troops in Korea.

They were three of 14,000 Chinese prisoners who chose not to return to Red China after the Korean war.

Instead they came to Formosa where many joined the Nationalist army. Most of the 14,000 are now full citizens. However some are on Green Island to the southeast—the Formosan version of Devil's Island. Here "re-education" is done, and a few thousand other dubious characters are kept under guard.

Red Chinese Defectors Recall War in Korea

"We found American soldiers not alert and often wouldn't shoot when we retreated," recalled Su-Chin Chang, a former political officer with Chinese infantry. He was taken prisoner in late 1951.

"British were patient and hard to win from. But we didn't mind fighting them," he said. "The ones we feared most were the Turks... very brave."

"We didn't know we were going to Korea until we got there and found people not speaking our language," he said. "Then we were told we were big brothers helping defend our little Korean brothers from the American invaders."

I didn't ask the men about their life in Formosa. With a government information officer listening, it seemed rather pointless. But there is no reason to suppose they aren't student before the army made him an engineer officer and sent him to Korea. He was taken prisoner very quickly. His most vivid memory is the UN prison camp. "We were not treated very well," he said. "Most of all the food was too little—we were fed more with the Chinese army."

The riots that broke out in some UN POW camps were due largely to "agents that the Communists purposely allowed to be captured in order to cause trouble—which they did," he said.

Ex-Sgt. Fu-Ten-Wang used to be a farmer near Peiping. He recalled how he "volunteered" for the army.

The young men of his village were collected into a hut with a stone floor and told to sit down.

Then a recruiting officer said any who wished to enlist should stand up. Everyone remained seated.

Fires were lit under the stone floor. It wasn't long before everyone was on his feet—and in the army.

"My whole battalion was made up of volunteers," the ex-sergeant said with a humor.

'Conservatives Given $60,000'

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—A civil action he instituted against William Perlin of St. John's involving election funds. Mr. Grant's evidence was sprinkled with political inuendoes. "I have lots of good friends if I ever need them," he said. "I can go to the phone right now and get $50,000 provided the banks are open."

Red-faced, white-haired Redmond Grant was testifying in

It was these "friends" who gave him $10,000 which, he said, he paid Mr. Perlin for the "specific use" of paying off Newfoundland party debts incurred in the 1957 federal campaign.

He alleges Mr. Perlin did not spend the money for the purpose intended and wants the money returned.

Only once did Grant give a clue as to the identity of his "friends." McNamara Construction Company of Toronto, which operates a subsidiary here, paid his expenses while in Newfoundland, he said.

Lawyer James Greene, acting for Perlin, asked how much of Grant's own money he had given.

Grant paused. "I suppose I had $5,000 to $6,000 of my own money," he said.

Grant said the money was given to him unconditionally.

"It was to use as I saw fit for the good of the campaign,"

He said he specifically instructed Mr. Perlin to use the money to pay 1957 campaign debts so the "Liberals" couldn't use bad debts as "a smear issue."

He "became suspicious the money hadn't been used for that purpose" when a "high ranking" member of the Newfoundland party—he later identified him as Otto Byrne—told him he "had never heard of me or the money."

Bank accountant Richard Doran, the only witness called by Mr. Greene, produced cancelled cheques totalling $17,311.78 made out to the Conservative party from the account of W. B. Perlin.

Mr. Justice Sir Brian Duffield rejected an application by Mr. Mercer for a commission to take evidence in Ottawa from Prime Minister Diefenbaker and other Conservative party leaders. Sir Brian said Mr. Mercer had not shown "affirmative reasons" for sending a commission.

Bank accountant Richard Doran, the only witness called by Mr. Greene, produced cancelled cheques totalling $17,311.78 made out to the Conservative party from the account of W. B. Perlin.

Mr. Justice Sir Brian Duffield rejected an application by Mr. Mercer for a commission to take evidence in Ottawa from Prime Minister Diefenbaker and other Conservative party leaders. Sir Brian said Mr. Mercer had not shown "affirmative reasons" for sending a commission.

He "became suspicious the money hadn't been used for that purpose" when a "high ranking" member of the Newfoundland party—he later identified him as Otto Byrne—told him he "had never heard of me or the money."

Ever Since Eve

Bribes aren't considered cricket in "parliament," so "prime minister" Gary Cooper, seated, had to call for order when Carol Bennett, leader of the opposition in the third annual mock parliament at Mount View High School, tried to tempt Allen

Menonites Ask Radio Station At Abbotsford

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI)

Forty-nine shareholders of a company formed by the Menonite community in British Columbia's Fraser Valley presented an application yesterday to the Board of Broadcast Governors for a radio station to serve the area centred in Abbotsford.

Jacob Klassen, spokesman for the group, asked for a licence to operate on 1,370 kilocycles at a power of 1,000 watts. Klassen said the proposed radio station would present "good music" of a religious and classical nature.

Plan for Area To Be Revived

Dormant issue of the Capital Region Planning Board's master plan for future physical development of the area is expected to be stirred up again early next month.

City council shied away from formally adopting the plan in the fall, for fear of committing the city to a course from which it couldn't deviate of its own will.

A special committee recommended that council adopt the plan as a guide only, but council deferred action pending discussion with the city's advisory planning commission. Since then, nothing has been done.

Air Toll Now 163

Toy Not in Place As Priest Dies

MONTREAL (CP)—For the past three or four years a tiny toy airplane has occasionally been placed before the statue of the Blessed Virgin in Montreal's Notre Dame Church.

Each time a member of the Sulpician Order, based in Notre Dame Church, travelled by air the tiny plane was taken before the statue.

It was not in place early Thursday when Rev. Guy Arbour of St. Johns, Que., a member of the order, perished in the crash of a Columbian airliner at Montego Bay, Jamaica.

Rev. Arbour's travel plans were not known by Montreal members of the Order.

The crash, in which 37 persons died, was the fourth fatal airline accident of 1960, bringing the total death toll to 163.

Earlier crashes were near Bolivia, N.C. Jan. 6, 34 dead; near Holdcroft, Va., Monday, 50 dead; and near Ankara, Turkey, Tuesday, 42 dead.

Smoking Him Out?

CLAXTON, Ga.—A judge may decide today if the ailing heir to the Camel cigarette millions must travel to court from the island on which his third wife has charged, he has set up a "principality."

Multi-millionaire Richard J. Reynolds, 53, has so far successfully resisted efforts of attorneys for Mrs. Muriel Marston Reynolds, 41, to force him to leave 12-mile-long Sapelo Island and travel by sea and land 70 miles to Claxton to appear in court.

But Mrs. Reynolds, in connection with Reynolds' divorce suit and her counter claim, has hired two chess specialists to examine the millionaire on the Atlantic Ocean island to check his claims that he is too ill to move.

LOS ANGELES—Convict John Cody snapped "that's a lie" at the Finch-Tregoff murder trial when defence lawyer Grant Cooper suggested he was hired to get divorce evidence on Mrs. Barbara Finch, not to kill her.

Names In the News

WINNIPEG—Robert Peter Haskins, 22, a deaf mute, was called an habitual liar when he appeared in court on fraud charges. He was sentenced to one year in jail.

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Senator John Kennedy has announced he will seek the Wisconsin Democratic presidential primary against Sen. Hubert Humphrey.

TOKYO—Junior high school principal Saitaro Gamo hanged himself yesterday because he felt responsible for the delinquency of his students, police said. Seventeen male students have been arrested on charges of criminal attacks on girls.

OTTAWA—Opposition Leader Lester Pearson said there are two things Canada must have — a distinctive national flag and the ability to amend its constitution without going to the British parliament.

NEW YORK — Sheila Reynolds, 32, was booked for simple assault after she hit a waiter with a steak. She said she did it because the waiter refused to bring another steak for her white poodle and told her: "We should live so long, m'am."

EDMONTON — The people of Newfoundland have been in full agreement only three times. Premier Joseph Smallwood claims — "In the First World War they wanted to get rid of the Kaiser; in the Second World War they wanted to get rid of Hitler; and in the 'third world war in Newfoundland' they wanted to get rid of the IWA."

Missile-Master In Operation

SEATTLE (AP) — The first production-model Missile-Master went into operation at Ft. Lawton here Thursday as the split-second control system for a dozen nearby Nike batteries.

Costing $3,000,000 to $4,000,000, it cuts the time between target detection and firing from minutes to fractions of seconds.

Costly Fish Worth Saving

VANCOUVER (CP) — Artificial stocking of the Fraser River system with sockeye salmon would cost nearly $500,000 in capital outlay and $125,000,000 annually to maintain, a B.C. fish hatchery scientist says.

That's good reason, says Stuart B. Smith of the fish and game branch, to protect vigorously, the streams used by migratory fish.

Morrow Forest Prober

Judge C. W. Morrow has been appointed a royal commission to study whether tree farm licence holders should bid on unalienated crown timber in public working circles and if so, on what basis.

Forests Minister R. G. Wiliston, in announcing the appointment, said last night Judge Morrow would merely be reviewing the earlier findings of the late Gordon Sloan, government forestry adviser. "Mr. Sloan carried out the inquiry and gathered all the data in the 1958 public hearings, but never handed down a decision," he explained. "Judge Morrow has been asked to review that data and findings of Mr. Sloan and see if it is possible to make a decision on that basis."

Behind the Teenage Curtain

'Good Stern Discipline' Has a Place in Every Home

This is the second of a series of articles on the mounting problem of juvenile delinquency in Greater Victoria. The articles will be frank discussions of the problems, including working mothers, junior high schools, teenage sex, young drivers and delinquent parents. Parents who have the pleasure of bringing children into the world and then expect society to raise them are the chief cause of juvenile delinquency, says Victoria Police Chief John Blackstock.

"It is a different story when a father is dead and a mother has to go to work, but when both parents are together they should take a little more interest in their children and make sure they are properly looked after.

"Many parents don't care what time their children come in and don't question them when new articles (possibly stolen) are brought into the home," Chief Blackstock charged.

He said juvenile delinquency is getting so bad in Victoria that he will soon have to add another man to the juvenile detail—an officer to work on the prevention side, to get out among the children and when a child is getting out of step to take him home and talk to the parents. "The two men we now have on the juvenile detail have far too much work to do a satisfactory job," the chief said. "Some parents are co-operative. With others you might as well talk to a stone wall," he added. For every juvenile delinquent the bitter truth is that somewhere there is an adult. Continued on Page 3

Explosives Found

Spears Sorry It Had to Be His Friend

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—FBI agents have discovered explosive in the luggage of Dr. Robert V. Spears, supposed crash "victim" whose wife said last night he admitted inducing another man to take his place on a doomed airliner.

Mrs. Frances Spears said in Dallas, Tex., she saw her husband two weeks before he was arrested at a motel hideout here and begged him to give himself up. "I asked him why he had done it, and he told me he wanted to provide security for me and the babies," said Mrs. Spears.

The finding of explosives in Spears' luggage intensified the FBI investigation into the crash of the National Airlines plane in the Gulf of Mexico. Spears, a glib ex-convict, was listed among the 42 victims of the disaster.

The self-styled doctor was questioned for nine hours without interruption yesterday. But the FBI, which officially has not confirmed the explosives were found, declined any comment after the interrogation.

Mrs. Spears, 36, said the naturopath told her his friend, William Allen Taylor, was travelling on the ill-fated airliner in his place.

"He said he was sorry it had to be him," said Mrs. Spears. The FBI is investigating the possibility Spears tricked another man to take his place to collect $100,000 in insurance.

FBI agents started questioning Spears at 9 a.m. yesterday. Food was brought in twice, but Spears was not allowed to leave the FBI bureau until 7 p.m., when agents hustled him back to the county jail.

"Special agent E. L. Boyle refused to discuss the case with reporters. However, sources close to the investigation said the FBI questioned Spears extensively about the explosives. One source said agents wanted to know "what he was doing with all that stuff."

In Dallas, Tex., it was disclosed FBI agents began a search of the home of Spears' 36-year-old wife.

Also questioned for seven hours here today was Dr. William A. Turska, a naturopath at whose ranch Spears was believed to have stayed for about two months. Turska was not charged in the current case.

Bennett Confined By Influenza

Influenza has caught up with Premier Bennett.

He went home from his office Tuesday and has been ordered to take a 48-hour rest. He will not be back at his desk until Monday. (Other flu story on Page 21).

"He is at home and asking for his newspapers, so things can't be too bad," said Dan Ekman, the premier's executive assistant.

He added that things are far enough advanced for Thursday's session opening so the premier's absence is not likely to upset arrangements.

Fulton Pledges Speed On Boy Killer's Fate

OTTAWA (CP) — Justice Minister Fulton said today the cabinet will act quickly to consider the case of 14-year-old Steven Truscott, sentenced to hang Feb. 16 for the rape-slaying of a 12-year-old girl.

"A government decision on the matter can be expected reasonably soon," he said. The jury recommended mercy.

Not since 1875 has anyone as young as Truscott been convicted of murder in Canada.

Worst Underground Disaster

500 Africans Trapped In Sunken Coal Mine

Frantic Rescuers In Action

COALBROOK, South Africa (Reuters)—Rescuers worked frantically early today to reach more than 500 men trapped by two collapses in a coal mine.

Several hundred other men trapped in another part of the mine, located 45 miles from Johannesburg, were led to safety by rescuers.

Rescue teams from all over the Orange Free State flocked to the disaster scene.

The men are trapped 600 feet underground.

WORST DISASTER

It is the worst disaster in South African mining history. Twelve hours after the collapse, the fate of the trapped men still was not known.

In many places, the surface of the road outside the town sank six inches and rescue traffic was diverted to country roads.

CARRY CANARIES

Fire-fighting teams in the mine were equipped with respirators and carried canaries because of their extreme sensitivity to methane gas.

First reports said more than 200 men were trapped. Later officials said as many as 500 African Negroes may be prisoners in the depths of the mine.

BREAK THROUGH

Rescuers worked frantically to break through the debris to get air into the trapped men. A big ventilating fan in the mine was wrecked by the collapse, and only a small emergency fan was in operation.

Scores of miners rescued during the night volunteered to go back down in a bid to save their trapped comrades.

WEEPING WOMEN

Weeping women and children huddled around the entrance of the mine for news of their relatives.

A statement by the owners said it was known that two falls took place in the mine. "It is feared that six whites and approximately 500 Africans are trapped in the mine and rescue operations are proceeding uninterruptedly," it added.

WAITED TO HEAR

Mrs. Boet Prinsloo, wife of one of the trapped men, said that a year ago "I waited to hear while my husband was trapped by a similar fall. "Two Africans with him were killed and he was in hospital for several weeks. "Now he is trapped again."

Two Outlets Oppose Dobson Radio Bid

VANCOUVER—Victoria and Nanaimo radio stations yesterday opposed a bid by Duncan's Mayor J. T. Dobson for a Cowichan station.

Mr. Dobson proposes to establish a 1,000-watt station which would give the Cowichan Valley its 13th radio signal.

He told the Board of Broadcast Governors sitting in Vancouver that other stations heard in Duncan now do not cater to the special needs of the valley. His station would serve 26,500 persons in the valley and 2,500 in the Gulf Islands.

Nanaimo's station CHUB said its Duncan studios, set up a year ago, were forced to close because of revenue losses caused by "the activities" of Mr. Dobson and Victoria's CKDA, which is applying for a Duncan satellite station.

If the plans of either of those two groups were sanctioned, CHUB would have a tough time realizing even "a modest profit" on its original $200,000 investment, the Nanaimo station said.

CKDA is opposed to the Duncan application on the grounds that the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's CBU in Vancouver transmits a strong signal to the Duncan area.

CKDA's argument pointed out that the CBC's Vancouver outlet was the Trans-Canada Network and it was the intention of the Duncan group to seek the same affiliation.

TV to Probe Depths for Jet

An underwater television camera will be used today to pinpoint the wreckage of a Comox-based CF-100 jet interceptor that crashed in Georgia Strait Tuesday near the up-Island air station.

B.C. Sub Marine Operations Ltd., a Victoria firm specializing in underwater TV work—and possessing a TV camera capable of operating 1,000 feet below the surface, a range much deeper than any other such camera in Canada—was called into the search yesterday by the RCAF.

The request was made after an oil slick was sighted on the surface of the sea by searchers yesterday at a point six miles east of the Comox base.

During the day, six Esquimal-based navy scuba divers searched shallower areas around what is believed to be the crash site. Divers have a depth range of 120 feet, but the plane is believed to be at least 250 feet down.

Operating the TV camera will be B.C. Sub Marine's Will Lawther, an ex-navy diving expert, and his chief technician, Dick Bowden.

The camera will be towed by a boat as it scans the depths for signs of the wreckage.

Meanwhile, RCAF men combed shores of Texada Island, about 13 miles east of Comox, for crash debris that floated there after the plane's plunge.

Two men were killed in the crash that occurred during a routine flight near the air base.

Excursion on Train To Aid University

Forest Expert Hired

NORTH COWICHAN — Frank G. Rainsford of Victoria is to be hired on a temporary basis to make a preliminary survey of the municipality's sustained yield tree farm now being put into operation.

Reeve Donald Morton said the decision to hire Mr. Rainsford came after a meeting including former reeve C. A. P. Morrison, who worked for four years formulating plans for the tree farm that council is now starting.

Mr. Rainsford is forest consultant for Mayo Lumber Co. Ltd., one of the biggest lumber companies in the district.

COBBLE HILL — An Island excursion by train is being planned for June by the Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association to raise funds for the University of Victoria building campaign.

George Bonner, VIRA president, said the run would be between Victoria and Courtenay. It is hoped from 500 to 600 persons might be interested in the one-day junket.

Special train cars would be needed, and the CNR will likely be asked to bid on the excursion, said Mr. Bonner.

CNR equipment could be used because the large company has running rights over the E & N Railway, he said. "It will help to get people using the train as well as benefit the university," he said.

URBAN TRANSIT

Motor buses operated by 77 urban transit companies in Canada in 1958 increased to 4,630 from 4,514 in the preceding year.

Injured Man Flown To Hospital

CAMPBELL RIVER—John Guilian was flown to Campbell River Hospital yesterday from the Tahsis logging firm's operations at Gold River on the west coast of the Island after a log rolled on him, breaking his leg and injuring his back.

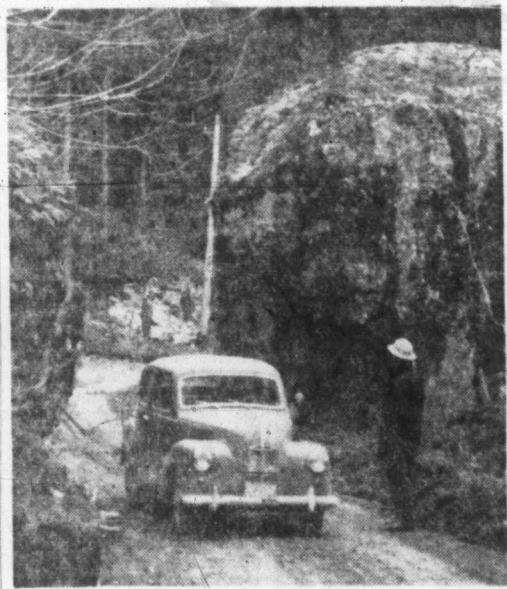

The logger's condition was described as satisfactory. B.C. Airlines plane that brought him to Campbell River was piloted by David Stronach.

Court of Revision

DUNCAN—The court of revision for the city will sit Feb. 1 at 10 a.m. in the council chamber at city hall.

Four cases are to be heard.

Blasts to Widen Old 'Squeeze'

NORTH COWICHAN — Two huge 50-ton rocks through which drivers of wagons and cars have had to squeeze for more than 70 years will soon be blasted apart.

Work was due to start today on drilling and blasting one to pieces and to split the other so a part can be toppled to close off the old road.

The Genoa Bay Road passes between them near the entrance to the dairy farm owned by lawyer Thomas Lines, more than eight miles east of Duncan by road.

It is one of the oldest sections of road in the municipality. A new section will pass around the rocks.

The work is part of a general program of widening—and in several cases of cutting out winding corners—between Birdseye Cove and Genoa Bay.

'Suburb' of Mainland

NANAIMO—Recreation Minister Earle Westwood says the day will come when it will be possible to live in Nanaimo and work in Vancouver.

He said a fast commuter helicopter service will make it easier to get to Vancouver from Nanaimo than from Chilliwack.

He said Nanaimo and district population will increase by two-thirds in the next 10 years, twice the average growth predicted for the whole province.

GREATEST ASSET

Nanaimo's greatest asset is its location opposite the greatest population centre in B.C. and as the gateway of communications between Vancouver Island the mainland, he said.

The government is studying the relative merits of possible routes for a highway on northern Vancouver Island.

They are:

An extension of the present Island highway from Campbell River to just south of Sayward and north and west along the Adam River to its mouth, thence along the coast to Telegraph Cove, into Englewood and Port McNeill.

SIMILAR ROUTE

A similar route as far as the cut-off point on the road to Kelsey Bay, then south and west along Schoen Lake to the Nimpkish River and along that river to a point south of Bonanza Lake. It would skirt Bonanza Lake to Kokish River and follow its course into Telegraph Cove and on to Port McNeill.

South and west from Campbell River, along Upper Campbell Lake, through the north-then northwest along the ern end of Strathcona Park to Nimpkish, past Bonanza Lake, a point slightly southwest of and into Port McNeill.

Cadillac

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

The Coupe de Ville

Silence is the Voice of Quality

Get behind the wheel of a 1960 Cadillac some day soon—point its handsome hood down your favorite stretch of highway—and listen!

Except for the occasional lullaby of the passing breeze, there will be literally nothing but silence to greet your ears.

But, oh, how meaningful that silence is!

For it speaks, with irrefutable logic, of the ingenuity of Cadillac design—and of the soundness of Cadillac engineering—and of the skill and integrity of Cadillac craftsmanship.

And just as silence is the voice of quality in a motor car—so quality, in its own turn, is the product of experience.

For almost six decades, Cadillac has devoted itself exclusively to the creation of the finest motor cars that the current automotive science would permit.

So rigid, in fact, has been Cadillac's adherence to the principles of quality that the two have become virtually inseparable in the public mind.

Never before, however, has this quest for perfection been as fruitful as in 1960.

In its styling and design, in its construction and assembly, and in its attention to detail—it is, far and away, the finest Cadillac yet.

We suggest that you see this new Cadillac—and drive it—and listen to it—very soon.

You'll find that the quiet of a Cadillac is the most eloquent sound in motordom. Give yourself this delightful experience today. Your Cadillac dealer is awaiting your visit.

Saanich Out to Corral Area's Light Industry

Plan Would Provide Non-Residence Zone

By TERRY HAMMOND

Saanich council is today studying an all-embracing industrial zoning plan designed to corral for the area's fastest-growing municipality all of Greater Victoria's new light industry up to 1976.

To meet a Capital Region Planning Board forecast calling for 82 additional acres of industrial land for Greater Victoria in the next 16 years, Saanich planners have come up with a program which offers a total of 94.34 acres in three-stage development of three adjacent areas.

The plan is designed primarily to put on an even keel the municipality's lopsided tax base which at present derives 91 per cent of the municipality's total tax requirement from residential development and only 4 per cent from industrial development.

Remainder comes from agricultural and commercial land and improvements. The proposed new industrial zone would gobble up most of 50 acres of an existing industrial zone which runs in a two-blocks-wide strip along Douglas Street from Tolmie to Cadillan.

Demolition of Homes

Fully implemented it would bring about the demolition of sub-standard homes which now occupy approximately 46 acres of land.

Some 15 acres of land in the industrial zone now occupied by adequate homes which are likely to become sub-standard within the next 16 years would also be made available for industrial development through demolition.

Most westerly of the three areas in the industrial zone would be bounded by Tolmie on the south, Douglas on the east, Whittier on the west and Cuddehul and Regina on the north.

In this area nearly 15 acres

Offers 11.25 Acres

This area offers 11.25 acres of presently vacant land, 19.05 acres of land occupied by substandard housing and a fraction of an acre occupied by "relatively good housing."

With this area as its westerly boundary, a third "reserve area" for expansion of the industrial zone exists with Saanich Road as its north boundary, Bethune and Maple Street extended on the east and Tolmie on the south.

It boasts 6.5 acres of vacant land, 3.16 acres of land occupied by substandard homes and 10.37 acres of land oc-

Largely Redesigned

The road pattern within the reserve area to the east "will have to be largely redesigned," regardless of whether it remains residential or becomes industrial, the report states.

Adoption of the industrial zone proposal would put an immediate halt to residential development within the designated area and it would become one of the first industrial zones on Vancouver Island in which residential building would not be permitted.

The zoning plan points out that industries settled in an

Special Works Plan

The zoning area report advocates a special public works plan for the area in order to make it attractive to industry, and calls for strict regulation of the appearance of new industrial buildings, plus mandatory provisions of paved off-street parking based on the floor-area and type of plant.

Acquisition of privately-owned land within the area, including that already occupied by homes, could be accomplished in one of two alternative ways, Saanich planner Antony Parr said last night.

He said the municipality could simply provide the zoning, the regulations and the improvements and leave purchase of sites up to individual industries, or, if the money was available, it could buy the land itself, supervise demolition or removal of homes, and resell to industry.

Parking areas would have to be screened off from public sight and landscaping would be required.

Plants and factories would cover not more than 70 per cent of the site on which they stand, and height would be restricted to five storeys or 60 feet.

Minimum lot area would be 6,000 square feet and a front yard area 25 feet in depth would have to be provided and landscaped.

Flu Hitting Adults, Children Scot-Free

A form of flu appears to be striking many adult Victorians, but still isn't affecting school children to any marked extent, district medical health officer Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy said yesterday.

"Maybe they're being left off this time," Dr. Mahaffy smiled.

Actual extent of the outbreak among adults isn't known, the health officer said, because influenza is not a reportable disease, physicians are not called upon to notify the health department of cases treated. But as an example, almost a third of the public health nursing staff has been away with it, she said.

Outbreaks in the United States have been described as Asian flu, but Dr. Mahaffy said Victoria's flu could be identified only by sending samples for laboratory examination in Ottawa.

City parks department will plant about 1,700 trees in boulevards between now and April 1, Parks Administrator W. H. Warren said yesterday. About 200 of them will replace old or diseased trees. Most of the remainder will be planted on James Bay streets, Mr. Warren said, "It's the biggest program we ever have had." The department is making up for lost time after losing much stock in the severe freeze-up three years ago.

Grade 13 Class For Cowichan?

DUNCAN — Students in Cowichan school district (65) intending to go to university may be offered the chance to take the first year here starting next September.

Col. R. M. Lendrum, principal of Cowichan Junior-Senior High School, told the school board last night he has a teaching staff capable of university-level instruction, but added there is no room in the school.

Next year, with the inclusion of Grade 13, there would be a shortage of at least three rooms, he said.

"If we succeed in getting a junior high school completed by then you will have the room," said Trustee Wilt Peck. The board asked Col. Lendrum and D. P. Todd, principal of George Bonner Junior-Senior High School, to survey students to the Grade 10 level to find out how many would take Grade 13 in Duncan.

NORTH COWICHAN — The municipality has offered unlimited assistance to Salt Spring Islanders trying to form a fire department.

Reeve Donald Morton says the experience gained by the municipal departments will be made available.

Council has also approved the calling of tenders for printing and the sale of de-bentures worth $35,000 for the Chemainus fire hall addition and a new fire truck.

PARKSVILLE — A special meeting is being held this week by Parksville village council to organize a winter work program.

One of the projects being considered is the slashing of brush along road right of ways in the village.

An effort is being made to press Highway Minister P. A. Gagliardi for installation of curbs and gutters along the Island Highway within the village.

MPs by the Chemainus-Crofton Chamber of Commerce.

The brief recommends construction of a rock-filled harbor running east from Hospital Point to protect Chemainus harbor and industrial investment totalling more than $16,000,000 and to make a safe anchorage the year round.

DUNCAN — Magistrate A. C. Sutton returned to the bench yesterday after being in hospital for more than two weeks.

It was his second bout during the last four months of recurring bronchial pneumonia brought on by First World War injuries.

DUNCAN — Miss Mary Waldon, new president of the SPCA, said last night that since the shelter went into operation Oct. 1 they have broken even.

Other officers for 1960 are: Kathleen Mykantas, secretary; Mrs. Ruth Cronk, treasurer. Directors are D. G. Bryans, Miss Henrietta Rea, Mrs. Lynette Delahunt, Cecil West, Robert Burke, R. G. Mulholland, Ald. James Saunders, G. M. Garnett, William Waldon and C. M. Richardson.

DUNCAN — Thomas de Leuw, 18, of Ladysmith, was fined $10 in court yesterday when he pleaded guilty to a charge of driving on Government Street Tuesday without his glasses.

Mrs. Hillborn and her children were taken in another city police car to St. Joseph's Hospital, and Mrs. Hillborn treated for a sore ankle and foot. Bruce was unhurt, and he and his mother were released.

Baby May was admitted for further observation.

Two four-year-old Langford adventurers, missing more than five hours yesterday, were found by RCMP on their way to Sooke on the Sooke highway at 6.45 p.m.

The pair, Ron Fletcher, 783 Meaford, and Allan Cook, 767 Meaford, "were just out for a walk," they said.

Allan said "we went for a walk looking for a store that sold firecrackers."

RCMP along with 25 Langford volunteer firemen and 10 civilian volunteers were starting an intensive search of the area when the boys were found by Constable Gerald O'Neill and Harry Wallace.

Wet, Reeking Bunk Held Five Children

Parents Lose Family

A Saanich mother and father were found guilty in police court yesterday of failing to provide the necessities of life for their six small children under conditions termed "disgraceful" by Magistrate William Ostler.

Raymond and Shirley Price, 3249 Maple, were remanded to Feb. 9 for preparation of a probation report. Their six children meanwhile will remain in foster homes, where they have been cared for since the parents' arrest early Jan. 14.

CALLING AT HOME

Constables Jack Stone and Bob Peterson of Saanich police told of calling at the Price home shortly after 8 p.m. Jan. 13. Mr. Price was home. Mrs. Price was not. After looking around, the officers called in Frank Heaton, Saanich welfare administrator.

All three said they found: Mr. Price on a chesterfield in the living room, which was heated by a small burner and in which there was spilled milk, sugar and trinkets on the floor.

RANCID BOTTLE

In a mattress-less crib in the same room was 11-month-old Raymond Price, wet, lying on pieces of wet cloth, with a plastic nursing bottle, the contents of which, on investigation, smelled rancid.

In a bedroom off the kitchen they found no heat and no light, but two double-bunk beds.

Said Mr. Heaton:

"The odor was abominable. Three of the bunks were empty and had no mattresses. NOT AN INCH DRY

"In one top bunk I saw, by flashlight, what appeared to be bundles of rags. I lifted them up, and counted four children. Not a square inch of the mattress appeared dry, top or bottom.

"I asked Mr. Price why the children were in such deplorable condition. He replied, 'That's my wife's job.'"

Only food the officers and Mr. Heaton could find in the house was a small bag of sugar, part of a bag of porridge oats, two bottles of spice sauce. Later Mr. Price said there was also part of a can of milk and part of a pound of margarine.

ARRANGEMENTS MADE

Arrangements were made, court was told, to have the Family and Children's Service bring mattresses, blankets and food to the house, and the officers left with the understanding that conditions would be corrected.

They returned shortly after midnight, when Mrs. Price was home.

They found no change, except that the baby was being given a bottle in the parents' bedroom, and that a fifth child had joined the other four in the same top bunk.

PARENTS ARRESTED

The parents were then arrested and the children taken to foster homes.

Taking the stand themselves, the Prices denied mistreatment. The father said he was a seaman and away from home a lot. His salary went into the bank where his wife drew on it for necessities.

Both said Mrs. Price did her food shopping daily, as there was no refrigerator for storing food.

SEEMS OBVIOUS

Said Magistrate Ostler: "It seems perfectly obvious that most people would not bed their animals down in conditions as disgusting as those at the time..."

"There is no direct evidence of illness or hunger among the children, but to my mind destitute and necessitous circumstances (noted in the charge) might embrace other things than illness or hunger."

The magistrate said he had no desire to cause the father to lose his job, or to split up the family. Consequently he released both parents on continuing bail for a probation report, with their undertaking not to try to regain custody of the children: Raymond, 11 months; Lorraine, 2; Marion, 3; Jenny, 5; Helen, 6, and Vivian, 7½.

Bonner Believes

Only City, Saanich In Family Court

A family court for Greater Victoria is definitely in the offing, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said yesterday, but at the outset it will probably involve only Victoria proper and Saanich.

Mr. Bonner made the statement following a meeting with Esquimalt council to discuss establishment of such a court.

"This is not to imply that the other municipalities won't be in it eventually," he said. "But it is my impression that they won't be formally associated with it at the outset."

Then, as an afterthought, he added that this observation "might not hold true for Oak Bay."

City Hall

Smith Back On Monday, Haggis, Too

For years, on the morning of Robert Burns' birthday, the steamy smell of haggis has drifted down the stairs from the employees' lunchroom at city hall.

The haggis, sampled at noon by Scots and many adventurous other members of the civic staff, has been donated by John Ingram-Smith.

Mr. Smith retired in 1959, and it looked as if a tradition had come to an end.

But he'll be back for a day Monday, he has told the city clerk—and so will the haggis.

Behind the Teenage Curtain

This is the second of a series of articles on the mounting problem of juvenile delinquency in Greater Victoria. The articles will be frank discussions of the problems, including working mothers, junior high schools, teenage sex, young drivers and delinquent parents.

Parents who have the pleasure of bringing children into the world and then expect society to raise them are the chief cause of juvenile delinquency, says Victoria Police Chief John Blackstock.

"It is a different story when a father is dead and a mother has to go to work, but when both parents are together they should take a little more interest in their children and make sure they are properly looked after.

"Many parents don't care

what time their children come in and don't question them when new articles (possibly stolen) are brought into the home," Chief Blackstock charged.

He said juvenile delinquency is getting so bad in Victoria that he will soon have to add another man to the juvenile detail—an officer to work on the prevention side, to get out among the children and when a child is getting out of step to take him home and talk to the parents.

"The two men we now have on the juvenile detail have far too much work to do a satisfactory job," the chief said.

"Some parents are co-operative. With others, you might as well talk to a stone wall," he added.

For every juvenile delinquent the bitter truth is that somewhere there is an adult

Explosives Found

Spears Sorry It Had to Be His Friend

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—FBI agents have discovered explosive in the luggage of Dr. Robert V. Spears, supposed crash "victim" whose wife said last night he admitted inducing another man to take his place on a doomed airliner.

Mrs. Frances Spears said in Dallas, Tex., she saw her husband two weeks before he was arrested at a motel hideout here and begged him to give himself up. "I asked him why he had done it, and he told me he wanted to provide security for me and the babies," said Mrs. Spears.

The finding of explosives in Spears' luggage intensified the FBI investigation into the crash of the National Airlines plane in the Gulf of Mexico. Spears, a glib ex-convict, was listed among the 42 victims of the disaster.

The self-styled doctor was questioned for nine hours without interruption yesterday. But the FBI, which officially has not confirmed the explosives were found, declined any comment after the interrogation.

Mrs. Spears, 36, said the naturopath told her friend, William Allen Taylor, was travelling on the ill-fated airliner in his place.

"He said he was sorry it had to be him," said Mrs. Spears. The FBI is investigating the possibility Spears tricked another man to take his place to collect $100,000 in insurance.

FBI agents started questioning Spears at 9 a.m. yesterday. Food was brought in twice, but Spears was not allowed to leave the FBI bureau until 7 p.m., when agents hustled him back to the county jail.

Special agent E. L. Boyle refused to discuss the case with reporters. However, sources close to the investigation said the FBI questioned Spears extensively about the explosives. One source said agents wanted to know "what he was doing with all that stuff."

In Dallas, Tex., it was disclosed FBI agents began a search of the home of Spears' 36-year-old wife.

Also questioned for seven hours here yesterday was Dr. William A. Turska, a naturopath at whose ranch Spears was believed to have stayed for about two months. Turska was not charged in the current case.

Influenza has caught up with Premier Bennett. He went home from his office Tuesday and has been ordered to take a 48-hour rest. He will not be back at his desk until Monday. (Other flu story on Page 21).

"He is at home and asking for his newspapers, so things can't be too bad," said Dan Ekman, the premier's executive assistant.

He added that things are far enough advanced for Thursday's session opening so the premier's absence is not likely to upset arrangements.

Fulton Pledges Speed On Boy Killer's Fate

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Fulton said yesterday the cabinet will act quickly to consider the case of 14-year-old Steven Truscott, sentenced to hang Feb. 16 for the rape-slaying of a 12-year-old girl.

"A government decision on the matter can be expected reasonably soon," he said. The jury recommended mercy.

Not since 1875 has anyone as young as Truscott been convicted of murder in Canada.

Victoria Not Affected

Business Is Good—Airlines

By United Press International

Airline spokesmen throughout the U.S. claimed yesterday that the plane crashes which killed 163 persons in four days haven't hurt their business a bit.

But an 82-seat Transcontinental Airlines plane flew from Miami to Chicago with only one passenger aboard. An employee said "63 other passengers cancelled out because of all the bomb scares."

Many railroad agents said ticket sales have spurted. A Southern Railway spokesman at Birmingham, Ala., said travellers were paying for tickets with airline checks—reimbursement for cancelled plane reservations.

In Memphis, Tenn., aviation insurance agents said most air passengers were buying the maximum $125,000 coverage. Most airline spokesmen said passenger reaction from the plane crashes, if any, probably won't become apparent for at least a week.

Recent air disasters have had no adverse effect on air travel in Victoria as yet, according to the manager of Trans-Canada Air Lines.

"It's a strange thing, but there seems to be no reaction," Wallace Courtenay said. "But it is a little early to assess."

Herter Worried By Cuba

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Secretary of State Christian Herter told Congress yesterday he is "very worried" about conditions in Cuba and has recalled Ambassador Philip Bonsal for consultations.

Herter discussed the Cuban situation in giving members of the Senate foreign relations committee a three-hour closed-door briefing on diplomatic problems all over the world.

Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) told newsmen afterwards that Herter called Castro's Wednesday night speech "the most insulting of any he has ever made."

Where Am I?

Can This Be Victoria?

The ranks of the legions whose recognition signal is "charming" when the password is "Victoria" failed to gain a new recruit here yesterday in outspoken Vancouver architect C. E. "Ned" Pratt.

Fresh from a motor tour of the capital city's residential areas the distinguished-looking "bad boy" of the three-man architects' committee which is touring Canada ran his hands through his steel-grey hair and said "where am I?"

"Am I in Victoria?"

"Or is this Calgary, or Edmonton, or Ottawa or Toronto or St. John's?"

ALL SAME

"They are all the same now. You could take me out of this chair," he said, "and blindfold me and put me in Victoria or any of those other cities and I wouldn't know where I was."

"This isn't the Victoria I remember when I went to school at Brentwood."

"We were out in the country there then—it was beautiful, the rolling fields, the sudden entrance to the city."
